House Decides For Continued Dies' Inquiry

Overwhelmingly in Favor of Un-Americanism Quiz

DISPUTE ENDED
No Further Action Needed by Senate or President

Washington—(AP)—The house voted overwhelmingly today to continue for another year an investigation of un-American activities and propaganda.

Speaker Bankhead announced the roll call vote was 344 to 35. That action brought to an end, at least for the time being, one of the bitterest controversies of the new congress.

Opponents had leveled accusations of unfairness and un-Americanism at the committee which handled the inquiry last year under the chairmanship of Congressman Dies (D-Texas).

Dies himself took the floor just before the final vote to assert that from the start "a well-organized attempt" had been made to discredit the committee by ridicule.

The resolution re-establishing the committee until Jan. 3, 1940, does not require action by the senate or the president's signature.

Will Reappoint Dies
Speaker Bankhead already has announced his intention to reappoint Dies chairman and name to the committee again the members who served in the past congress. There is one vacancy.

At the outset, Congressman Cook (D-Mich.) tried to block the resolution with a parliamentary objection, which immediately was tossed aside.

The house had an hour to debate the measure, since Congressman Smith (D-Wash.) blocked an attempt to double the time on grounds that all house members already knew how they were going to vote.

Funds Needed
The resolution provides no funds for a further inquiry, but Chairman Warren (D-N. C.) obtained permission for the accounts committee to hold afternoon sessions next week to discuss a measure to supply more funds.

Dies, has asked for $150,000, but the house is expected to compromise on $100,000.

Arthur L. Johnson of the General Welfare association told a house committee that his group had the "sanest" pension system yet advocated. He proposed a 2-per cent income tax to finance pensions for the aged of from $30 to $80 a month.

DISAPPROVED

By a vote of 15 to 3 the senate judiciary committee disapproved President Roosevelt's nomination of Judge Floyd Roberts (above) to a federal judgeship. Roberts is of Bristol, Va., and his appointment was opposed by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia.

Won't Withdraw 2 Nominations, President Says

Amlic to Stay Before
Senate for Action

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today he would not withdraw the nomination of Floyd H. Roberts to be a federal judge in Virginia.

He added that if the senate refused to confirm the nominee, already rejected by the judiciary committee, he would write a letter to Roberts which would be right interesting.

Reporters got about Capitol Hill yesterday that the president probably would withdraw the nomination of Thomas R. Amlic, Wisconsin Progressive, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission.

In response to another question he said he had not been requested to withdraw the name of Amlic, charged by opponents with being a radical, by the senate interstate commerce committee.

The name of Donald Wakefield Smith, reappointed to the national labor relations board, did not enter into today's press conference, but in congressional corridors reports recurred that the president would cancel his selection in view of active opposition by the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Roosevelt has not yet submitted Smith's nomination to the senate.

Martin Issues Opinion On Theater 'Bank Night'

Madison—(AP)—Attorney General John Martin ruled today that a theater "bank night" which permits a person to register in the drawing lobby and participate in the drawing without buying an admission ticket, does not constitute a lottery.

8 Firemen Are Feared Dead in Building Ruins

Plight Called 'Hopeless'
When Two Remaining Walls Fall

SEARCH IN DEBRIS

Ninth Firemen Taken to Hospital With Critical Injuries

Syracuse, N. Y.—(AP)—The plight of eight firemen buried for more than five hours in the fire-scarred ruins of a five-story office building, was described by rescuers as "hopeless" when the structure's two remaining walls fell inward today.

"We've just about given up hope of getting any of them out alive," declared District Fire Chief Frank M. Savage.

Collapse of the two side walls of the building piled tons of additional debris upon the trapped men, who were fighting the blaze from the third floor when the roof collapsed and carried them with it into the basement.

A ninth fireman, trapped in the wreckage with the eight still missing, was rescued an hour after the collapse and taken to a hospital, critically injured. Two others were treated in hospitals for minor injuries received earlier.

Speed Rescue Attempts
Final collapse of the walls was accompanied by a fresh burst of flame from the smoking wreckage. Firemen poured new streams of water on the blaze before resuming rescue operations.

Two hundred public works department employees were put to work in the ruins with picks and shovels as the city mobilized all its resources in a desperate attempt to reach the trapped men.

Before the collapse of the walls, rescue workers had reported hearing voices coming from the ruins and had expressed hope that some of the men still were alive.

Families of the victims huddled in a fire station near the scene of the blaze many of the men weeping and hysterical.

The structure where the fire occurred, known as the Collins block, is located near the heart of the business section. An adjoining building was undamaged, fire walls preventing spread of the flames.

The lone fireman rescued from the ruins was identified as William F. Moore.

Those still missing were listed as Lieutenant David Lavine, Lieutenant Albert G. Young, Lieutenant Raymond E. Bauder, District Chief Thomas J. Dugan and Firemen John W. Agan, James E. Diamond, G. Michael Dixon and Frank Karlan.

Irish Republican Agitators Blamed For Bomb Blasts

London—(AP)—Bomb explosions in two London subway stations in the center of London today signalled renewal of a series of anti-English outrages attributed by Scotland yard to Irish Republican agitators.

The blasts occurred almost simultaneously about 6 a. m. in the Leicester square and Tottenham court road subway stations, about a quarter-mile apart.

A ticket collector and one other person were injured at the Tottenham station. Five persons were hurt at Leicester square.

Mrs. Tom Mooney Says Mate Demands Divorce

San Francisco—(AP)—Mrs. Rena Mooney said today that Tom Mooney, pardoned recent assassin of a federal judge, had demanded that she divorce him.

Mrs. Mooney declared she would fight any divorce action.

Mooney was convicted of murder after the bombing of the 1916 Preparedness day parade here. His wife said she had aided him throughout the years in his efforts to obtain freedom, which culminated in a pardon by Governor Culbert L. Olson.

EX-SENATOR DIES

Washington—(AP)—Frederick Stelwer (above), who served 11 years as a Republican senator from Oregon, died early today at the age of 55. Near the end of his second term, he resigned from the senate Jan. 31, 1938, to practice law here. He had not been in the best of health for the last three years.

Stelwer delivered the keynote address at the Republican national convention in Cleveland in 1936, and had been mentioned that year as a possible presidential nominee.

Coast Guard Boat Tows Disabled Tug With Nine Aboard

Two Men on Derrick Scow
Reach Shore Safely
In Michigan

Manitowoc—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Antietam towed the disabled tug Reiss safely into this port at noon today. The tug's nine-man crew was reported in good physical condition despite a 48-hour battle with storm-tossed Lake Michigan.

Sheboygan—(AP)—The C. Reiss company of Sheboygan reported today that the coast guard cutter Antietam was towing its disabled tug to Manitowoc.

The company said information received by radio indicated the crew of nine was still aboard the tug, Peter Reiss, and apparently in good physical condition despite a harrowing two-day experience on storm-tossed Lake Michigan.

The tug put out from Manitowoc Wednesday morning, taking a derrick scow. The crafts were bound for Ludington, Mich. With the Michigan port in sight, the tug became disabled. High winds drove both vessels toward Manitowoc.

The Ann Arbor railroad's car ferry No. 5 found the tug and scow yesterday. She attempted to take them in tow, but presumably was not able to maneuver close enough because of heavy seas. The ferry stood by until the Antietam and the coast guard cutter Escanaba arrived from Milwaukee and Grand Haven, Mich.

It was understood here that the Escanaba, a 165-ton vessel, like the ferry was unable because of weather conditions to get close.

Confesses Slaying His Wife and Son

Young Dentist Gives Self
Up in Office of Pittsburgh Attorney

Pittsburgh—(AP)—District Attorney Andrew T. Park related today the bizarre story of a conscience-harried young dentist who, although remarried, returned here after a long flight from the law and admitted the slaying of his son and first wife.

Unsuccessful as a dentist, 34-year-old Dr. Norman Stewart, 2nd, who later became a grocery clerk and bartender, stole $300 from a Jacksonville, Fla., hotel to finance the trip and came here yesterday, leaving the woman he married here, aged in Jacksonville, Park said.

Be-speckled and neatly dressed in a dark blue suit, Stewart walked into the office of Attorney C. Dick Cable yesterday and told his story. Cable turned him over to Park.

For four hours last night, arms folded and showing no emotion, Stewart detailed in a gruesome statement how, driven to desperation by debt, his mind "went blank" after an argument with his lovely young first wife over finances in their tiny flat above a garage in suburban Wilkinsburg.

When he came to his senses later, Park said the statement added, Stewart found his wife, Mary Louise McClelland Stewart, 29, of Wilkinsburg, and his four-year old son and namesake, Norman, 3rd, dead—beaten to death with a hammer and stabbed with a bread knife.

That was June 13, 1935, when, after having failed to make a success of a dental practice, Stewart held a depression job as a $15-a-week grocery clerk.

Twin Sisters Are Born In Different Counties

Kane, Pa.—(AP)—Twin sisters born today in communities 10 miles apart and in different counties.

One twin arrived while the mother, Mrs. John Clopp, was at her home in Wilkes, Elk county, and the other six and a half hours later after Mrs. Clopp had been brought to a hospital here in McKean county.

Advance Bill To End Setup In Government

Senate Forces Engross-ment of Reorganization Repeal Plan

BALLOT IS 21 TO 11

Little Doubt of Favorable Action in Wisconsin Assembly

Madison—(AP)—Coalition forces in the state senate emphatically disclosed today their intention to wipe out former Governor LaFollette's entire governmental reorganization setup by forcing engrossment of the repeal bill introduced by Harry Bolens, of Port Washington, Democratic leader.

The bill went to third reading by a vote of 21 to 11 and probably will be sent promptly to the assembly when it comes up for action next week. In the assembly it will be received by a sympathetic majority of Republicans and Democrats also advocating repeal.

The Bolens bill will return the prisons and institutions for mental cases to the board of control, abolishing the new department of mental hygiene headed by Director Grant C. Haas and may eliminate temporarily the part-time seven man advisory board supervising the department of agriculture and markets.

Markets Proposal
There is pending in the assembly, however, an administrative bill to re-enact the present administrative setup in the department of markets but the appointments would come under Governor Heil.

The existing board was appointed by LaFollette. The Wisconsin Council of Agriculture has endorsed the plan of administration now being used in preference to the old full time three man commission.

Directors Calmer Brovy of the public service commission and John Thiel of the tax commission hold their positions by virtue of the reorganization act, which eliminated the former positions of secretary. Both were appointed by the present commissions. Brovy, who has civil service ranking, succeeded William M. Dinnage.

Coalition Solid
The Republican-Democratic coalition voted solidly for engrossment of the Bolens bill and the Progressive bloc voted in a unit against it.

Fred Risser (P), Madison, declared it was the "height of folly" to pass the repealer without something in the hopper to remedy what he said will be an extremely confusing situation.

Bolens, directing his attack at the manner in which the reorganization act was jammed through the 1937 special session, replied that the agriculture and markets bill will be the first step in retaining anything worthwhile.

Kenneth White (R), River Falls, ardent critic of the tactics used in the special session, said: "We need castor oil to clean this thing out properly."

'Something Else' Is Behind Food Strike, Prison Warden Says

San Quentin, Calif.—(AP)—Warden Court Smith was lurking danger of violence today as a strike of 2,750 surly, hunger-stung convicts—more than half of the 5,250 inmates of overcrowded San Quentin prison—went into its third day.

"There is something else behind this strike—something more than objections to the food we serve," the warden said.

The strike started when 1,500 convicts complained the food was not to their liking and refused to eat lunch. By nightfall, 3,800 convicts had decided to fast. The number dwindled more than a thousand yesterday when strikers were kept locked in their cells and put on a bread and water diet.

Prison authorities frankly were opposed to the possibility that hunger might result in increased sullenness and, eventually, in violence.

Warden Smith said no punishment would be inflicted on the strikers at present, and probably none would be punished as long as there was no disorder.

Governor Heil Denies Friction With Dykstra

Madison—(AP)—President Clarence A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin was assured last night by Governor Heil before 400 guests at the farm and home week banquet that he would not have to cut faculty salaries in spite of a proposed $100,000 reduction of the university budget.

The governor warned, however, that some "frills" might have to be "done away with" adding "I'll soon find out about that."

Introduced by Dykstra with the words: "I think this is the first time the governor has been introduced to so many university people in Madison." Governor Heil denied any misunderstanding existed between them.

Roosevelt Denies He Said Rhine Is U. S. Front Line

U. S. Embassy Asks Italy
To Explain Press Attacks

ROOSEVELT TARGET

Publications Continue to Assail American Executive

Rome—(AP)—The United States embassy today asked the Italian government for an explanation of bitter personal attacks on President Roosevelt published in the fascist press.

The attacks were part of an intense hostile press campaign provoked by versions of the president's meeting Tuesday with a senate committee which quoted him as saying the frontiers of the United States were in France.

(The president today said reports which quoted him as saying either that America's frontiers were in France or were on the Rhine were lies.)

It was learned that United States Ambassador William Phillips sent a note to Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, calling his attention to press attacks on the president and requesting an explanation.

Attacks Continue
It also was disclosed that a similar step had been taken previously in an unofficial manner following publication of similar personalities involving the president.

The campaign was continued today for the third day with Virginia Gayda, fascist's chief newspaper spokesman, leading the attack.

"Since Roosevelt wants to push his offensive into the heart of Europe up to the Rhine and Alps," Gayda wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia, "it is natural that the defense to counter-balance it be extended up to the Rio Grande as well as to the line of the Panama canal, which has been developed by the United States as one of its bases for maneuvering between the Atlantic and Pacific."

(Gayda wrote before news of the president's denial reached Europe.) The fascist editor declared that Roosevelt had "imposed the neces-

HE'S 77 TODAY

Washington—(AP)—Justice James C. McReynolds (above), who has been the most frequent opponent of Roosevelt administration legislation on the supreme court, became 77 years old today. His retirement long has been rumored, but he has given no indication that he expects to quit in the immediate future. He has served since 1914, longer than any of his colleagues.

Standards Group Facing Hearing At State Capital

Harry Jack Asserts Charges
Will Come Up
'Very Shortly'

Oshkosh—(AP)—Harry Jack of Hortonville, chairman of the state board of agriculture and markets, announced today that a hearing involving the department's division of standards will be held in Madison "very shortly."

The announcement follows a meeting of the board here Wednesday at which J. W. Moore, cheese inspector of the standards division, charged Harry Klueiter, his chief, of not prosecuting reported violations of standards in the state's cheese industry.

Moore took the floor at the meeting, it was disclosed, as an individual, rather than a member of the department, and declared:

"I can keep silent no longer. I have reported many flagrant violations to Harry Klueiter and yet he has done nothing."

Moore continued that he had found evidences of insufficient inspection of warehouses, and that Michigan cheese had been shipped into the state and the Wisconsin stamp placed on it, before it was transhipped.

At Madison, Ralph Ammon, director of the department of agriculture and markets, confirmed that the hearing will be held there under the auspices of the state board.

Jack, confirming the account of Moore's charges, said today he could substantiate some of them, declaring that, among other things, he had learned of the sale of cheese of 42 per cent moisture as "state brand."

"There has been no prosecution of this and other violations," said Jack, "yet they have been reported to Mr. Klueiter."

New Justice Bureau Unit Is Announced

Washington—(AP)—Attorney General Murphy announced today establishment in the justice department's criminal division of a civil liberties unit.

Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant to the attorney general, was appointed unit chief. Schweinhaut, 37, has been a trial section lawyer in the criminal division since 1935.

French Socialists Launch New Campaign to Assure Help for Spanish Loyalists in Conflict

Paris—(AP)—French socialists began a new drive today to win aid for the hard-pressed Spanish government as France made informal overtures to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The socialist party, encouraged by the Spanish government's avowed determination to continue its resistance, published an "appeal to the people of France" urging that war supplies be rushed to end the prospect of war which would arise from an insurgent triumph.

At the same time, French Senator Leon Berard was traveling to Burgos, the Spanish insurgent capital, and was understood to have the approval of Premier Daladier for conversations with Franco. Berard was expected to negotiate safe transfer to insurgent Spain of Spanish government troops and to sound out Franco on

President Charges Statement Is 'De- liberate Lie'

CITES POLICY

Foreign Position Not
Be Changed

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt's enunciation of United States foreign policy at a White House press conference today provoked criticism and approval by members of congress.

Senator Nye (R-N. D.), after reading an outline of the president's policy, commented:

"If this is our foreign policy, why all the secrecy about it?" The North Dakotan, also referred to the second of four points made by the president in which Mr. Roosevelt said this country was in favor of maintaining world trade for all nations, including the United States.

"If this means, among other things, a defense of the disproven theory of freedom of the seas in time of war it is exceedingly dangerous and invites the United States into more of other people's wars," Nye asserted.

Senator Lee (D-Okla.), a member of the senate military committee, said he was in sympathy with the policies outlined by the president today.

"You can't find any flaw in that," declared Senator Schweinhaut (D-Wash.).

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt termed a "deliberate lie" today a statement that he had said the American frontier is on the Rhine.

The president, at a press conference at which he restated America's foreign policy informally, also described as a lie the report that he had said the American frontier was in France.

The chief executive declared some reports of his conference with the senate military committee Tuesday had given an erroneous impression of this nation's policy. He added most of them had been manufactured by some legislative and newspaper-owner agitators and they were a deliberate misrepresentation of existing facts.

Mr. Roosevelt departed from the fixed rule of his press conference to permit direct quotation of the phrase "deliberate lie" by which he characterized one report of what he told the senate military committee at a White House conference.

Conflicting Reports
(The president summoned committee members to his office Tuesday to discuss circumstances surrounding the dissemination of American-made military planes to France. The committee members were pledged to secrecy and conflicting reports of what took place arose. At least one committee member brought away the impression that Mr. Roosevelt had said that in event of a European war, the frontier of American democracy would be in France. The Rhine river is the boundary between France and Germany.)

(Some other committee members, however, denied any such statement was made, while still others declined to make any comment whatever on the White House meeting.)

(The Associated Press account reported these conflicting statements with the defense and foreign policy programs were pure bunk.

These agitators, he said, were appealing to the prejudices and fears of the people and were acting in an un-American way.

The president's lengthy discussion of foreign policy followed a question which suggested that some people were confused about what actually took place at his conference with the senate military committee and also his meeting yesterday with a house appropriations subcommittee on the army bill.

He added the people were confronted by the simple fact that

Catlin Bill on County Board Representation Is Engrossed; Tax Payment Measure Passed

Madison—(AP)—The assembly today passed and sent to the senate a bill authorizing local governing bodies to extend the time for payment of 1938 real estate taxes until July 1.

It is a proposed re-enactment of the extension laws of previous years.

The bill requests the taxpayer to file an affidavit if he is unable to pay by March 22, and if the taxes remain unpaid after July 1 interest will be charged from January.

Three Progressives and two Democrats and a Republican jointly sponsored the measure.

A bill introduced by Mark S. Catlin, Jr. (R), Appleton, allowing cities to increase representation on county boards without increasing the number of aldermen on the common council was advanced by engrossment. Progressives declined to agree to a suspension of the rules for final passage.

Andrew J. Biemiller (P) Milwaukee, introduced a bill calling for a fine of $200 against any employer who discharges a man over 40 years or fails to hire a man over 40 because of his age. The bill gives the industrial commission, which would administer the law, legal right to publish the names of offenders. It exempts employees of agricultural and domestic help.

New assembly bills include: By Biehler (D), Belzoni: appropriates $275,000 for farm short course buildings, equipment and two dormitory units at the university.

By Catlin: Places county traffic officers under civil service, sets up a county traffic commission of five members appointed by the chairman of the county board, allows officers to carry concealed weapons, and grants them general police powers beyond their traffic duties.

By Westphal (R), Milwaukee: Provides for a chiropractic ward at the Winnebago State hospital.

the possibility of France sending a commercial agent to Burgos.

Insurgent dispatches said Franco's troops were pressing relentlessly toward the French border at the rate of about six miles a day. The vanguards were said to be near Baza, 23 miles south of the border town of Puigecerd, and above Vich, about 30 miles south-west of Geneva.

Bomb explosions in two subway stations in the heart of London were attributed by Scotland Yard to Irish republican agitators, who, they suspected, were renewing anti-British terrorism.

World war bitterness was revived in Belgium, where Premier Paul Henri Spaak nursed minor wounds inflicted by former servicemen who protested the appointment of a war-time German sympathizer to the Flemish academy with the government's approval.

Ask Extension of Moratorium for Another 2 Years

Heil Present at Hearing;
'Emergency' Not Over.
Committee Told

Madison — (P) — With Governor Heil a silent spectator, the assembly judiciary committee heard reports yesterday that farm conditions in the state are as bad as they were in 1933 and the law providing for a moratorium on foreclosure of mortgages should be extended another two years.

The governor, explaining "I just dropped in to listen," sat quietly for 40 minutes until the hearing ended.

Laurie E. Carlson (P), Bayfield, sponsor of a bill to extend the "emergency" status under which the law was passed in 1932, said Wisconsin farmers still do not make enough to cover costs of production.

"The emergency is not yet over," he said.

Oppose Measure
Two attorneys for insurance companies, Byron H. Stebbins, Madison, representing the Association of Life Presidents, and Clarence Klocksin, Milwaukee, of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, appeared against Carlson's bill. They questioned whether the "emergency" stand would be upheld by the courts.

A group of Madison lawyers clashed with members of the Dane county board of supervisors over the creation of an additional judgeship for the ninth judicial circuit provided in a bill by Herbert C. Schenck (P), Madison.

The attorneys claimed Madison court calendars were so overcrowded that irreparable injustice was resulting. Admitting this, the supervisors blamed state commission cases and suggested that circuit courts in the counties where the cases originated should be empowered to hear appeals.

Continued Hearing
The assembly committee on excise and fees, after lengthy argument, continued for two weeks a hearing on a bill by Peter P. Pyszcinski (D), Milwaukee, to increase minimum fees for Class A liquor and beer licenses from $10 to $100.

The measure affects grocery and drug stores, which would be required to keep their beer and liquor stocks out of sight by partitions.

The Wisconsin Tavernkeepers association sponsored the measure as a protection to minors, while representatives of food distributors and drug stores claimed the sole purpose of the bill was to get all the business for the taverns.

Over 30 Entries In Amateur Show

Program to be Presented
Next Friday Evening
At Kimberly

Kimberly — More than thirty amateurs throughout the valley, making up 25 acts, will participate in the Major Bowes program at the clubhouse on Friday evening, Feb. 10. Rehearsals for the program will be held next Tuesday evening at the clubhouse gym.

The numbers registered include: instrumental music, singing, whistling, tap and ballroom dancing. The Rev. L. C. Smith, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will play the part of Major Bowes. Al Pitt will be the accompanist while Bud Webb will be the announcer. During the program Kaukauna will be the honored city.

The clubhouse stage will be decorated to represent a broadcasting station. Balloting will be by the audience. Ballots will be distributed at the door.

Miss Elaine Newhouse, vocalist, Dickie Mauthe, tap dancer, and Lambert Groen's Harmony band, will appear as guest artists on the program and will not compete for prizes. Miss Newhouse was last year's amateur winner while Dickie Mauthe was a prize winner in an amateur show at the clubhouse three years ago.

Lighting Group of Drama Club Shown How to Mix Colors

Demonstrating how light can change the apparent color of objects, Clement Ketchum, head of the Appleton high school science department, gave a practical lesson in achieving stage effects for the lighting group of Curtin Call, dramatic society, Thursday afternoon in the physics laboratory.

By mixing the primary colors, red, green and violet, Ketchum proved to the students that white light could be secured, a softer white than the harsh light of the white lamp. He also demonstrated that a combination of false primaries, blue and yellow, will give white or a combination of any one of the colors and its complement.

During and following the lecture the group discussed the practical application of these principles to their work in stage lighting. They will meet again Monday afternoon. Jack Burroughs, biology instructor, is adviser.

Cashman Goes to Madison to Fight Farm Department

Former State Senator Has
Reorganization

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — John E. Cashman, of Denmark, a private citizen for the first time in almost two decades, came to the capital this week with some ideas for state government reorganization, with particular emphasis on the state department of agriculture and markets.

"A part-time commission is a full-time nuisance," the former state senator and Democratic candidate for congress declared as he said that he will advocate a change in the agriculture department organization to a full-time, single commissioner appointed by the governor with the consent of the state senate.

Cashman, who has been feuding with the department of agriculture ever since his celebrated oleomargarine tax law was passed four years ago—and which he claims the department has never adequately enforced—said that he would oppose bills now before the legislature which would continue the present part-time commission of farmers with the power to choose an administrative director for the farm department.

"The part-time board is a nuisance because it has power without knowledge. Special interests dominate their appointments, and their decisions. The director, subject to these men, is always uncertain of his job."

"We must fix the responsibility on one man who won't be hampered by any considerations except the farmers' welfare," he asserted. Cashman also declared that the new administration would do well to dismiss some of the officials of the present department.

"Legislation for the farmers will be null until the department is run and regulations are made by friends of the farmers," he continued.

Cashman would not comment on the Heil budget, the Heil administration program or other current affairs at the capital.

Two Cars are Damaged In Traffic Accident

Two cars were damaged in a minor collision about 9 o'clock Wednesday evening at the intersection of Morrison and Summer streets, it was reported to police yesterday. Cars being driven south on Morrison by Ray H. Curry, 613 E. Roosevelt street, and east on Summer street by Dr. A. L. Werner, 538 N. Center street, were involved, police said. No one was injured.

21 Plumbing Permits Issued During Month

Twenty-one plumbing permits, 30 heating permits and two permits for sewers were issued by the city building inspector, George E. Gauslin, during January, according to his monthly report. His office collected $91.50 in fees. During the month Gauslin made seven furnace inspections, six final inspections, 21 roughing inspections and four sewer inspections.

PRISONERS IN SAN QUENTIN STRIKE FOR BETTER FOOD

Some 2,750 hungry, sullen convicts went on a hunger strike at San Quentin prison in California, ostensibly against the prison's diet. More than half of the prison's population participated in the strike. Warden Court Smith expressed the belief that food was not the real issue. Some of the convicts are shown here milling about the prison yard beside the mess hall.

Schoolmasters of County at Dinner at Clintonville Hotel

Clintonville — Waupaca county schoolmasters and their wives met for a dinner Wednesday evening at Hotel Marston. Covers were laid for 30 guests. Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Superintendent Harley J. Powell of the Clintonville public schools. Principals and other teachers were present from cities and villages of this county.

Instrumental selections were played during the meal by the Misses Louise Schuri, piano; Betty Spiegel, violin; Alice Simons, cello; and Gloria Bleck, clarinet. The program included: a baritone solo by Russell Shannon, two vocal duets by the Misses Dorothy Fumelle and Lucille Winkel, and selections by the brass quartette composed of Russell Shannon, Evelyn Bothwell, Mae Peterson and Ellen Mae Wartling.

The program speaker was Max Stieg, cashier of the Dairyman's State bank and treasurer of the local board of education, who discussed the educational program being sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Wisconsin Bankers' association. This program strives to promote leadership among the young people working in the future Farmers of America, 4-H clubs, and similar organizations.

After the program, the schoolmasters discussed mutual problems and the women were entertained at bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Rohrer of this city, accompanied by the latter's sister, Miss Hilda Besserdich and Miss Viola Behling left Thursday on a motor trip to California, where they expect to spend several months. They will travel by way of Texas, where they stop to visit the latter's brother, Arthur Behling, a former resident of this city.

Christian Mothers Meet
Christian Mothers society of St. Rose church held its February meeting Thursday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus hall. Plans were discussed for a food sale to be held some time in March. Arrangements were also made for a 1 o'clock luncheon on Feb. 16, when Mrs. Joseph Baur will head the general committee. A membership drive is being conducted by members of the society and will be concluded in April when the losing side will be obliged to entertain the winners at a party. The serving committee for this week's meeting included: Mrs. E. K. Bard, Mrs. A. G. Bohr, Mrs. Fred Fumelle, Mrs. John VanBoxtel and Mrs. Nell Casey.

The Catholic Missionary society will meet Tuesday evening, Feb. 7, at the home of Mrs. C. E. Kant, with Mrs. E. K. Bard and Mrs. Clarence Gueller as the assisting hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bohn of this city, with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tribby of New London, left Thursday for Wichita, Texas, from

Lawrence Scores G.O.P. Stand on Foreign Policy

Compares Situation With That Wilson Faced In 1916

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Fifteen years ago today, Woodrow Wilson died as hundreds of people knelt in prayer on the streets outside his home.

Twenty-two years ago today, the United States government severed diplomatic relations with Germany.

These two anniversaries recall to mind the circumstances under which the United States entered the World War and the state of mind of Republicans at that time in the evolution of foreign policy by a Democratic president of the United States.

The Republican viewpoint in 1916 was that Mr. Wilson was not sufficiently vigorous in protecting American rights—he had failed to go to war when the Lusitania, a British ship carrying American citizens, was sunk without warning by a German submarine. He had failed also to go to war with Mexico. The Republican position, as expressed by former President Theodore Roosevelt and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and others, was that Mr. Wilson did not bestir himself when Germany committed the crime of violating the neutrality of Belgium in 1914.

1916 Campaign
Throughout the campaign of 1916, the argument against Mr. Wilson implied that a more forceful American foreign policy was needed, whereas the Democratic politicians pointed to "peace and prosperity" and boasted that Mr. Wilson had "kept us out of war." Never did any such boast come from the president himself.

The effect on the German military staff mind was that the United States was against war and would not fight at any price, or that if America did fight, her help would come too late, because unrestricted submarine warfare would destroy the British fleet, cut off the allied food supply and insure a German victory.

Immediately after the 1916 election, the Germans began planning their submarine attack, and when, early in 1917, they sank ships flying the American flag, Mr. Wilson found it necessary to enforce his earlier warning against such action. He chose a course "short of war." He was denounced for this by a handful of senators, but the regular Republican leaders stood with him. Later on, still believing that America could avoid war, he asked for permission to arm American merchantmen so that they could defend themselves against sudden attacks by submarines on the high seas. Authority to do this was denied him as a result of a filibuster in the senate, in which what he termed "a small group of willful men" prevented the majority from voting before the session of congress was automatically adjourned on March 4.

Disregard Policy
Germany's total disregard of American foreign policy and her belief that the United States was divided and would not back up Mr. Wilson actually brought on American participation in the war. The contention so often made by so-called "liberals" in their books, that Mr. Wilson was actuated by a desire to protect American trade in war munitions, is a libel which anybody who lived through the period of 1914 to 1917 and saw at first hand every day what was going on, is did this correspondent, will be quick to refute.

Mr. Wilson tried to keep America out of war. His sincerity was questioned. He was bitterly assailed by those who had been adversely affected by his truly liberal domestic policies, and he was the object of attack also by a propaganda and political intrigue here set in motion by the Berlin militarists. But there was one handicap which Mr. Wilson did not have when it was apparent that war was inevitable. Republicans, led by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, cheered his decision to protect American rights. The vote in April, 1917, in both houses of congress was overwhelmingly in favor of recognizing that Germany had in fact begun a state of war against the United States by her submarine attacks against innocent American citizens traveling on American merchant ships.

League Issue
Partisanship did not return till just before the armistice, and it did not at first manifest itself even on the League of Nations issue. Even during the campaign of 1920, the most influential conservative groups in the Republican party, led by Charles Evans Hughes and former President William Howard Taft, still urged American entry into the league with reservations.

Today the Republicans have begun a direct attack on President Roosevelt's foreign policy on the charge that he wants to drag America into war. The first maneuver has been to insist that America sell airplanes to all nations which can pay for them and that American sympathies should not be expressed on the side of the democracies through military sales. This is a dangerous viewpoint from the standpoint of practical politics. For, while the American people do not want war, it will not be easy for the Republicans to convince them that Mr. Roosevelt wants it either, and that's the burden of their case to date. The speech of former President Hoover is a surprise, for it indicates that he, too, has fallen victim to the delusions of partisan politics so evident here, namely, that Mr. Roosevelt couldn't possibly be trying in the best way he can command to convince the nazis that they had better not repeat the mis-

LONKEY FAMILY GIVES NATURAL MUSEUM PIECES TO APPLETON HIGH SCHOOL

Wisconsin's Health

BY DR. C. A. HARPER
State Health Officer

The two men and the two women who are employed by the state board of health to lecture on social hygiene to young people throughout the state are kept busier than Gunga Din and his water bucket.

They will point out to you that social hygiene is a subject on which there has been too much public silence—and too much private talk.

If youth, they tell you, is to be the joyous preamble to a happy life, you have to give young people large principles and high ideals, and you have to give them reliable information on basic subjects.

Talk with these hard-working counselors (their public speaking dates are booked months ahead), and they will make you realize that young people should be prepared through straight knowledge to meet the problems arising from boy-girl relationships, because there is probably no greater unhappiness than the physical and mental sorrow that comes through the misuse of sex.

The current great change in the American social attitude toward the subject of social hygiene, by which the curse of venereal disease has been brought out into the open where it can be duly conquered, has brought a good deal of attention to Wisconsin's long-standing program of education in these subjects through capable speakers.

C.Y.O. Has Meeting at Combined Locks School

Combined Locks—A meeting of the C. Y. O. was held Monday evening at the Combined Locks school. Plans were made for a Valentine party which will be given the night of Feb. 14. Games will be played and valentines will be exchanged. The committee in charge consists of Lydia Wulterkens, Anna Vandewylenberg, and Morris De Groot. Lucina De Coster is in charge of refreshments.

Plans were made for a sleigh ride party to be held immediately after the next snowfall.

Members of the C. Y. O. for 1939 will pay their dues to Lucina De Coster, treasurer, at the next meeting. These dues will be sent to the diocesan treasurer, Miss Helen Rhode of Green Bay.

C. Y. O. officers for 1939 include Morris De Groot, president; Anna Vandewylenberg, vice president; Lorraine Schumacher, secretary; Lucina De Coster, treasurer; and the Rev. J. DeWilde, adviser.

Shiocton Family Gives Museum Specimens to Appleton School

Appleton High school measurably increased its natural museum Saturday when it was given hundreds of specimens, part of the estate of G. H. Lonkey, a Shiocton cattle-buyer and natural historian. The museum is the gift of Mr. Lonkey's heirs, Jay Lonkey, G. H. Jones and John Lonkey.

Included in the collection are stuffed owls, partridges, pheasants, parrots, a rare white sparrow, a golden eagle and mounted deer heads. One hundred arrow heads, a tomahawk, a stone hatchet and a flintlock rifle are but a few of the historical curios.

Biology students will delight in examining the variety of birds' nests, curious wood specimens, the Spanish moss. Even rare coins are included in the collection. One of the prize pieces is a table with built-in elk, deer and bullock horns and a lamp fashioned from an armadillo.

The museum was moved to the high school Saturday by members of the Nature Study club under the direction of Harvey Gysi, biology instructor and club adviser. Student naturalists will prepare the collection for public inspection. Specimens will be placed along with those already collected in the museum room on the fourth floor of the tower and in display cases in the science rooms. Visitors will be invited to see the museum Sunday, Feb. 5, when the entire high school will be open to the public from 2 to 6 o'clock.

Five Teachers Attend Sectional Conference

Forest Junction—Morton's "New Methods in Arithmetic" was one of the subjects for discussion when five town of Brillion teachers met in sectional conference with Miss Faythe Fletcher, Calumet county supervising teacher, at McKinley school here after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Teachers attending were Mrs. Eleanor Schmitz of Dewey school, Mrs. Nettie Kielgas of Carson school, Miss Florence Persohn of Longfellow school, Miss Charlotte Stanelle of Alcott school and Miss Angela Domke of McKinley school. The conference was one of a series being conducted by Miss Fletcher throughout the county.

Approximately 20 pupils of McKinley school have enlisted for 4-H club activity in consequence of recent promotion of the project, and held an organization meeting at the school Tuesday noon. A committee was appointed to draw up a constitution and officers were elected as follows: Paul Walker, president; Leo Reinke, vice-president; Kenneth Dexheimer, secretary.

Little's Team Will be Out To Avenge Early Season Defeat

Kaukauna—Revenge for an early season defeat will be uppermost in the minds of Kaukauna High school cagers as they meet St. Mary's of Menasha at 8 o'clock tonight in the high school gymnasium. A preliminary tilt at 7 o'clock between the Bees will be run off. The game is the last non-conference game of the year. The Kaws will wind up with conference contests against Menasha, Clintonville, Shawano and New London, the first two at home and the others on foreign courts. On Dec. 9 the Kaws traveled to Menasha and failed to make a field goal until the third quarter against the Zephyrs, losing 25 to 19.

Work On Defense

The last few practice sessions have been devoted to defensive workouts with the second stringers carrying the offense. With the season two-thirds gone the Kaukauna marksmanship should be at its peak, and work on defense will probably be the rule in preparation for the remaining conference games and the district tournament at Menasha. The Kaws, by virtue of last week's victory over West DePere, 30 to 23, are in third place in Northwestern conference play. They have, however, only an outside chance to finish higher, as Keshaw in second place is a game and a half in front, and Kaukauna has yet to face Shawano and New London on the enemy's floor.

Tonight's starting lineup is indefinite. Either Paul Koch or Joe Bloch will start at one forward post with Don Biseck at the other. Bill Alger will be at center, with Carl Giordana and either Junior Swedberg or Bob Derus at guard. Jim Sanders, reserve forward, suffered a broken nose last night in a collision with Swedberg and will not be available. Reserves almost certain to see action are Willis Raquette and Andy Meitner.

Kaukauna—Eleanor Dietzler, bowling with the Gertz five in Ladies league competition last night, rang up the season's high score with a 589 total on games of 222, 182 and 183. Her first game was also high game for the year. Her team won two from Tittmans, with Gert Grebe's 455 on 141, 144 and 170 leading the losers. The Renns continued to sweep everything before them, taking three in a row from Van Denzens, with Prudence Gloudin getting lines of 173, 180 and 186 to lead the Renns with 549. Theresa Van Gompel had 430 on 139, 153 and 138 for Van Denzens. The Goldins kept pace with the Schells in a tie for second by winning two from Simons, while Schells were winning two from Franks. Frances Kline led Goldins with 423, and Marie Van Abel the Simons with 445. A 456 total by Alice Schell topped her quintet, and by Hildebrandt the Franks with 408.

Kaukauna Police Will Begin Bicycle Inspection Saturday

Kaukauna—Inspection of Kaukauna's bicycles, the first step in the operation of the bicycle ordinance passed Dec. 6, will be begun Saturday. Chief of Police James E. McFadden has announced. Bicycles may be registered on all February Saturdays from 9 o'clock to 4 o'clock. If the bicycle passes inspection its owner is given a license application blank. Licenses, obtainable at the city clerk's office, must be taken out by March 1. A fee of 25 cents is charged. Inspection of the bicycle will determine if the wheels are in good mechanical condition under specifications of the ordinance. Every bicycle operator and owner in the city is required to have his wheel inspected. The rider's name, address and description of the bicycle must be given. An identification tag will be affixed, with duplicates available for 15 cents if the tag is lost. Vehicles judged to be in an unsafe mechanical condition will be refused registration. Under the ordinance any rider who uses such an unsafe wheel may be suspended for 30 days from riding. All changes in order is called for.

Town of Kaukauna To Pass Century Mark on March 9

William Wolf Heads Project to Codify Historic Documents

Kaukauna—On March 9 of this year the town of Kaukauna will be 100 years old, according to William F. Wolf, Grignon home caretaker who is in charge of a project to codify and recopy original letters and documents pertaining to this territory's history before 1860.

A crew of NYA workers is busy three days every two weeks at Kaukauna Vocational school under Wolf's supervision. Copies of the completed research will be placed in Outagamie Rural Normal school, the Grignon home, the Milwaukee museum and the state capitol. Additional information will be made available to all interested, Wolf said. The accumulated material is not historical in itself, Wolf explained, but may be used as source matter for historical research.

Kakalin in 1839

Wolf's original documents show that on March 9, 1839, the territory council of Wisconsin approved the town of Kaukauna. The town was in Brown county at that time, with a county commission form of government. Charles A. Grignon, Samuel Ryan and Morgan L. Martin were the commissioners. In 1841 Brown county voted to change to the township system, and from Kaukauna Charles A. Grignon, Paul Beaulieu and Hoel Wright were named supervisors. Grignon was town chairman from 1844 to 1850, when George W. Lawe was named. In 1851 Outagamie county was organized, with towns of Grand Chute, Greenville, Hortonville, Ellington, Kaukauna and Lansing. George W. Lawe was supervisor from Kaukauna. In 1862 the county government was changed to the commission system, and in May of 1870 was changed to the township form.

Kaukauna was the first town to be organized in the county, in 1839, with Grand Chute next in 1848.

Acting Warden Kiwanis Speaker

Discusses Functions and Objectives of Prison System

Chilton—At the regular meeting of the Chilton Kiwanis club Tuesday evening, the preliminary program consisted of songs by Walter Ninow, accompanied at the piano by Miss Alice Schneider, and by Margaret Jensen, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Arthur Jensen.

John C. Burke, acting warden of the penitentiary at Waupun was the guest speaker, taking for his theme the functions and objectives of the prison as a penal and reformatory institution. The people of the state are too much given to talking about crime and urging the passage of laws to meet the crime situation, he said. In discussing crime, people either forget or do not know that burning, hanging, guillotining and gassing have been tried, but crime continues to grow, for the above forms of punishment do not reach the source of the causes that yearly produce a crop of criminals. That length of sentence is not a serious check to crime is illustrated by the fact that Canada, with shorter sentences than the U.S.A., has proportionally less crime, showing that it is the certainty and not the severity of punishment that has a forceful deterrent effect, Mr. Burke maintained. Yet should a crime wave arise the masses of people would be ready and willing to cure the situation by authorizing judges to enforce longer sentences.

Back of the crowded prison is the dark shadow of the broken home and deficient educational and moral training, the speaker asserted. The average prison term at Waupun is 5 years and the average educational level is fourth grade. The average prisoner has no habits of industry and does not understand what obedience means and will not follow directions of a foreman. The majority of prisoners entering Waupun come in poor health, usually with hernia, diseased tonsils or chronic stomach trouble. The Waupun prison is giving education to 30 men in a full time school. Cell study courses are also offered and a number of inmates are taking university extension courses. Much of the education is along vocational lines with the result that about all the repair work of the prison machine equipment is done by trained inmates.

James Roach Funeral Is Held at Waupaca

Waupaca—Funeral services for James Roach, 70, were conducted from the Holy Family home at 10:30 Thursday morning by the Rev. Hugh Missall of the First Methodist church. Mr. Roach died Tuesday morning after a long illness. Interment was in Wausau, former home of the deceased.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Hitler's Issue: The Haves and the Have Nots

Chancellor Hitler went a long way in his address on Monday toward clarifying the prospects for the coming year. He confirmed the conclusion, which was already indicated in the week after Munich, that his next major campaign would be directed not against Russia, but against the British Empire primarily and against the French Empire incidentally. This was certain to be his choice. Great strategist that he is, Hitler was bound to see that he could not expand to the east, through Poland and the Danubian states to the Ukraine, as long as the Anglo-French military and naval power was intact behind him. That was the mistake of the Kaiser in 1917, when he pushed into Russia after the separate peace of Brest-Litovsk before reaching a decision on the western front. And Hitler is not repeating that mistake.

But being a realist, Hitler is under no illusions about how formidable an undertaking it is to offer a direct armed challenge to the Anglo-French combination. Weak as they were on the issue of reaching out into central Europe to protect their positions in Austria and Czechoslovakia, they are from a military point of view invincible in defending themselves. That is why "the crisis" of the past few weeks has been exaggerated by those who thought that there was immediate danger of war.

War is precluded for the time being by the fact that the defensive military position of the Anglo-French is very much superior to the striking power of the Rome-Berlin axis. What makes the Anglo-French position too strong to be challenged directly is, first, that the defense is inherently easier, but above all that the two nations are united in their will to resist. Their capacity to resist has indubitably been strengthened by the moral support which they have had from public opinion in the United States.

So, though there have been alarms and anxieties throughout the world in the past month, a real crisis involving the risks of a general war has not developed.

Will to Resist Now

Preventing More Force

A great crisis will not and cannot develop as long as there is maintained as much unity of attitude among the western nations as they have achieved since Munich. This is the only guaranty of peace that the world has, and the question is whether in the months to come, say, between now and September, the will to resist can be divided or can be maintained. We shall see what we shall see. The campaign which Hitler inaugurated on Monday is designed to prepare a situation in which Britain and France become separated, each suspecting the other of trying to buy peace at the expense of the other, in which America is induced to adopt a kind of neutrality which would be in effect a blockade against both France and England. Then, and then only, France and Britain are isolated and internally divided, will the moment have come for a real show of force to bring the one or the other to another Munich.

The theme of the campaign which culminated at Munich was an appeal to the right of self-determination. The democracies were persuaded that they had no right to resist by force the incorporation in the German Reich of the Sudeten Germans. The theme of this campaign is an appeal to the anti-imperialism of the Western nations: "How can a just and sensible share in the world's wealth be assured to all great nations?" said Hitler "for surely no one can seriously assume that, as in the case of Germany, a mass of 80,000,000 intelligent persons can . . . be forced to remain passive forever by having some ridiculous legal title, based solely on former acts of force, held up before them."

We shall hear much more of this thesis in the months to come. For on the basis of this thesis Hitler means to persuade the western world that resistance to his claims and to Mussolini's is morally wrong and that any kind of unity in opposition means that the democracies would be pulling the imperial chestnuts of foreign imperialists out of the fire.

Western Imperialism Is Self-Liquidating

Now there is no doubt that there is a colonial question, that Europe can never be at peace until, through emigration and through the expansion of foreign trade, the overcrowded regions of the continent find an outlet in the uncrowded regions of the earth. Hitler is speaking the truth when he says that any German statesman would be bound to raise the question. But he is a colonial question, that Europe can never be at peace until, through emigration and through the expansion of foreign trade, the overcrowded regions of the continent find an outlet in the uncrowded regions of the earth. Hitler is speaking the truth when he says that any German statesman would be bound to raise the question. But he is

SHE GOT SLAPPED

A man has a right to slap his wife, Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan ruled in Chicago in denying a divorce decree to Mrs. Mary Kuchar, 21, shown here outside the courtroom. "If more wives were slapped, there would be fewer divorces," said the judge.

nally controlled from London is a little over 4,000,000 square miles, and of this about half is India which is very nearly to virtual independence. The other half of what is really the British Empire is in Africa, and of the African Empire, Egypt is very near to independence.

The truth of the matter is that Western imperialism is self-liquidating because the spread of democratic ideas makes it impossible for democracies to deny self-government in their empires. The British experience is the most striking of it is the most important. But our own confirms it. We have had a colonial empire, and if force were the criterion we could have had a much greater one. But the whole course of our policy in the past generation has been to get out of the business of imperialism.

Constructive Solution May Become Possible

The real colonial question, as it is presented by the Germans, Italians, and Japanese, is whether the liquidation of colonial empires is to be carried out to its logical conclusion, or whether new empires based on conquest are to be founded. Specifically, the issue is this: The tendency of the democracies is to resist from imperialism by granting self-government to their colonies and an open door to commerce. This tendency could be hastened by negotiation, and a true settlement of the colonial question would have been reached when the backward parts of Africa, which are as yet incapable of self-government, were under international tutelage with equal opportunity to all the advanced nations. This is the solution which history is preparing, and it is the solution which alone promises to put an end to the rivalry of imperialisms.

The other solution, which is what the Germans, the Italians, and the Japanese, are now seeking, looks not to the liquidation of empire but to redistribution of empire. That is a radically different thing. For that will accentuate the armed rivalries of empire rather than remove the rivalry. The extension of Japanese imperialism to the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies, of Italian on the shores of the Mediterranean, and of German into Africa is bound to mean, not only a set-back to the movement for self-government and the open door but to establish new frontiers of rivalry and new focal points of military and naval antagonism all over the world.

A true settlement would mean that the Haves gave up their rapidly waning monopolistic position, not that the Have-nots replaced them as monopolists with a much more intense form of imperialism. Whether such a settlement is possible with highly militarized dictatorships is the question that will be tested out in the period we are entering.

For if the European democracies which have the empires are able to resist intimidation long enough and certainly enough, they may eventually reach the position where a constructive solution becomes possible. But if their resistance disintegrates, we shall get not a solution of the colonial question but a new imperialism that is more dangerous to the world's order than the one which now exists.

HAGUE'S STUDY OF THE CONSTITUTION

When Mayor Hague was trying to fashion Jersey City upon the model of Benito's Rome, and the CIO, Norman Thomas and other Socialists were splashing the surrounding territory with salty tears and wailing like a banshee on a black night, the Post-Crescent suggested that if they would quit the street music long enough to file a complaint with the federal court Mr. Hague would find himself very shockingly tossed about like a flapjack on a hot griddle.

It wasn't a matter of second sight with this newspaper. The same advice would have been given by any clerk, millhand or farmer, for the American people instinctively realize when something is utterly wrong. They knew without delving into the books that Jersey City had ceased under Mr. Hague to be a part of America. Running orators out of town because the Mayor disagrees with their political notions, or chasing labor leaders over the hill because of the particular Unions they are trying to organize, just couldn't be America. It was merely the segment of a nightmare.

Of course the Federal Trial Court found that the deportation of CIO leaders was plainly unconstitutional. But the haymaker blow to Mr. Hague was delivered by the Court of Appeals to which he appealed.

That Court even went so far as to sweep aside the discretion which the Jersey City ordinance vested in the Director of Public Safety to refuse a permit for public speaking because of a "threat of disorder." This, says the Court of Appeals, is in effect prohibiting "peaceable assembly except upon terms repugnant to free speech."

Obviously free speech may be maintained for all without either public disorder or the permitting of speeches on every corner to the detriment of travel. But Mayor Hague's plan just as obviously was to use a small and noisy group of stooges to threaten a riot, whereupon the Mayor, through his Director of Public Safety, refused or cancelled the permit. The Circuit Court of Appeals tore this pretense into ragged ribbons. It said:

"Speakers may not be prohibited from speaking because they may say something which will lead to disorder. The function of the police at public meetings is not to prevent speakers from presenting their views but to preserve order while they speak. Otherwise freedom of speech and assembly is destroyed."

The court might have gone further and said that the law in this country does not seal up the lips of any person merely because a slander is threatened, not even if that person is a notorious slanderer. It does give any outraged person, however, the right both to damages and to punish with imprisonment the one who has appealed to malicious falsehood as an argument.

The courts have been grappling with the question of freedom of speech, press and assembly ever since they were written into the constitution. The multitude of decisions in the last 125 years has been occasioned by the devilish ingenuity of man for we have had quite a number of Mayor Hagues through the generations. And each, no doubt, has had a pretty slick lawyer at his elbow to suggest the way of writing an ordinance in order to deprive men of their basic American rights. Too, our growing and congested population have suggested certain reasonable limitations that must be enjoined since the right to free speech is no greater right than the right to sleep, rest, eat and work. But Mayor Hague's plan was notoriously bad. It was designed to prevent a political and an economic foe from receiving the same rights the Mayor asked for himself.

And that sort of a twister can never be tolerated.

A MAN FOR A CRISIS

Although a month has passed since His Excellency, the Hon. George Howard Earle III, last crashed in an airplane, and more than a week has elapsed since his successor, Arthur H. James, was inaugurated Governor of Pennsylvania, no crisis is discernible on the horizon of sufficient magnitude to tempt the Hon. Earle to emerge from retirement.

The Hon. Earle, some persons may recall, left office with the declaration that never again would his peerless services be made available to the public good unless a great crisis should appear—a crisis apparently of such stupendous size that no ordinary man will be able to cope with it.

True, there is a grand jury investigation into various activities of the Earle administration under way at Harrisburg, which has resulted in the indictment of one of the Hon. Earle's former cabinet members, but it is plain to be seen that this is not of sufficient importance to induce the Great Man to sally forth from retirement. Such things he ignores with disdain and contempt. Whether the grand jury will ignore the Hon. Earle only the elapse of time will divulge.

SAFETY IN THE HOME

Accidental deaths were reduced by 10,200 and disabling injuries were reduced by 700,000 in the United States in 1938 as compared to 1937 with an estimated economic saving of $400,000,000, according to the report of the National Safety council. Generally speaking accidental deaths and injuries were decreased in all divisions excepting those in the home where there was an increase of 2 per cent, bringing the total in this department up to 32,500. Traffic fatalities were decreased from 39,642 in 1937 to 32,000 in 1938. It is astonishing that there were 500 more fatal accidents in homes than there were in automobiles while in America there probably are as many automobiles as there are homes.

The high automobile death rate will not permit the conclusion that Americans are good drivers, but the number of fatalities in the homes does indicate that we are pretty bad housekeepers. There is however, more than a gleam of hope in the report. Traffic deaths fell 7,640 during the year, occupational fatalities were 2,000 less than the previous year, indicating that where educational work was directed there was a favorable result.

Among the 48 states 45 were able to bring the accidental death toll below the 1927 level, and 20 of them showed an improvement of 20 per cent or more. Rhode Island led the nation with a reduction of 36 per cent, and Wisconsin stood well up in the list with a reduction of 24 per cent.

Safety work is largely directed against traffic and industrial hazards, more intensively in some states than in others, but it is only beginning to reach the home. The report indicates one thing plainly enough, and that is that more safety work directed specifically at the hazards of the home is needed. It is of course one of the most difficult places to reach, but the lessons of safety can be carried into the homes if they are taught to the children in school, to the man in the factory, and presented to the homemakers through lectures at clubs and gatherings, and through the press and other means available to those who know that the home is not by any means the safe place it should be.

CIVILIZATION'S NEW HUB

Athens, Rome and London having successively had their day as cultural center of the Western world, where next shall it be found? That was the question propounded—and answered—at the annual meeting of the Pilgrims Club in New York, and the answer was "our town."

Mark this inspired propaganda: "And if that center of intellectual inspiration shall cross the Atlantic to what point will it come? It may be that this new capital of thought and inspiration and guidance may find itself on the Island of Manhattan. Why? Because, while not the seat of government, there is concentrated here and has been for 160 years the nation's greatest power of constructive and guiding thought and of social and economic activity and inspiration."

Grover Whalen speaking? Not so, or even the Little Flower. This sweeping encomium comes from no less a man than that savant and pundit, Nicholas Murray Butler. With his 160 years Dr. Butler antedates the Constitution by a decade. There are some who will be obstinate enough to believe that a little thought and inspiration of the early days emanated from benighted sections like Virginia and Massachusetts. We have to concede Franklin D. Roosevelt as a sometime Manhattanite to Dr. Butler, but are a little dubious of the street addresses of dyed-in-the-wool New Yorkers like Jefferson, Franklin, Lincoln and Wilson, who had something to do with the nation's "social and economic activity."

And the notion obtrudes that through the years there have been other academic nuclei of culture than the institution that now graces Morningside Heights. We love, though, to think of Emerson and Thoreau in their rollicking Broadway days and have to admit that when Margaret Fuller said "I accept the Universe," that included little old New York. It is great to think of the Butler Five Foot Shelf, or of what might have been, if Dr. Butler had thought of it first. The heart warms at recollections of Mark Twain as a pilot on the Hudson, and of the life of Huck and Tom in a little Empire State village, and of how Henry Ford always seeks industrial inspiration and substance from Wall Street.

But why go on? Those of our great and near great who didn't live on Manhattan have only themselves to blame. Maybe Old Walt wouldn't have preferred Brooklyn to Greenwich Village if he had to do it again. Dr. Butler, himself, is an old New Jersey boy, but he early found his way to a ferryboat, didn't he? And if his beloved Manhattan repines because it does not possess all of the great names, there's an easy way out—just elect 'em to the Hall of Fame, and there they shall abide forever.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—The telephone rang, and the girl who looks after such things at the Cotton Club answered.

VOICE: I wish to make a reservation—a table for four—for this evening.

GIRL: I'm afraid we cannot do it, sir. All tables have been taken for tonight.

VOICE: I am dreadfully sorry, really. Maestro Toscanini was most anxious to attend.

GIRL: Who'd you say? Toscanini? Just a moment, please. (Puts hand over mouthpiece and shouts to headwaiter: Hey! That big band leader Toscanini wants a reservation for tonight.) HEADWAITER: (dropping dignity for a moment). Toscanini! Not really Toscanini! Imagine! Toscanini wants to hear Cab Calloway! It's a strange world. Let me have that phone. (Takes receiver and speaks into phone). This is the headwaiter speaking. We are sold out for this evening, but if the Maestro wishes to come, we most certainly will have accommodations prepared specially. Thank you, sir.

Mr. and Mrs. Toscanini and two guests arrived and were seated at a front table. The air of the hoity-ho, jazz-muh-tazz Broadway hot spot was electric. The excitement was most intense among the Negro musicians themselves. They played the show nervously, each man conscious that he was making music at the moment for the most celebrated musical ears of Christendom.

When it was over, the musicians did not hurry to leave the bandstand. They hung around, stealing glances at the distinguished white-haired man at the front table. Finally one musician walked hesitantly over to the table.

"Please excuse me," the colored fellow mumbled. "But, please, could I just touch the maestro? Just touch his sleeve—could I, please?"

Toscanini pushed back his chair instantly and stood up. "I am most happy to see you," he said to the Negro; and he extended him his hand.

The musician, eyes popping and sublime joy written on his features, jiggled away. Minutes passed. Another musician approached. He asked if the maestro would mind writing something—anything—on a piece of paper.

Mrs. Toscanini interrupted.

"Please, no," she said. "Let me have your name and address, and the maestro will be glad to send you his photograph, autographed; but he cannot write for you now because others will see, and he will be bothered all evening. He is not young, you know, and he is trying to get some relaxation."

Toscanini broke in. "It is all right. I am glad to write something for you." He signed his name on the paper.

The Negro stared at it, his face mirroring complete happiness. "Hot dog!" he cried. "Now my wife'll believe I really saw Toscanini." Then, alarmed for fear his outburst had been the wrong thing, he stammered: "I'm sorry, maestro. I guess I'm over-excited. You see, we all's going to have a baby pretty soon—next month, most likely—and this writing is going to make me and my wife the proudest people in Harlem."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Friday, Feb. 1, 1929

Fire that morning destroyed the Gibson Ford Rental Co. building on W. College avenue, causing a loss of about $33,000. Thirteen automobiles were lost. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. A. J. Johnson, an employee, was burned about the hands and was taken to the hospital.

Ted Lawson was elected president of the Neenah Sportsman's club at the annual meeting the previous evening.

Announcement was made that sound pictures were to be shown at the Appleton theater. The first "talkie" scheduled was Al Johnson's "The Jazz Singer."

E. H. Sothern, noted Shakespearean player, was to appear at Lawrence chapel in April, it was announced.

The Valley council of Boy Scouts set an objective of 20 troops and 500 scouts for the coming year. There were 412 registered scouts in the council as of February 1.

Pictures appeared in the Post-Crescent to show $30,000 worth of county equipment buried in the snow at the county garage.

Friday, Feb. 6, 1914

Deputy Clerk of the Courts George N. Danielson fired his pistol three times at a prisoner fleeing from the county jail the previous day, but the prisoner didn't even hesitate in his dash for liberty. The prisoner was tracked as far as the Hortonville road and it was reported he had boarded a northbound freight train.

Sergeant Fred Hoffman was elected second lieutenant of Co. C by the members the previous evening. He received all the 44 votes cast.

John J. Sherman said the Citizens National bank probably would begin erection of a new building the coming summer, if the First National bank had moved into its new quarters by that time. A new Y.M.C.A. also was to be built that summer, assuring Appleton a prosperous building year.

Little Chute's new gasoline fire engine arrived and was put on trial.

City Commissioner John Goodland was to address a mass meeting in Fond du Lac where a vote on adoption of commission government was to be taken soon.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

WHEN CHILDREN COME HOME

When children come home to the old folks
For just a brief visit at night,
They never could guess how much happiness
They bring to our fading sight.

For all of the years lived together
Have left such a mark on our lives,
There's a cloud on the day with the children
That lifts when reunion arrives.

When the children come home, the door opens,
And the door of the heart springs as well,
There is laughter! Such bliss! There's a baby to Kiss.

And many a story to tell!
The world may be troubled and broken,
And souls filled with care and distress,
When the children come back, nothing seems Quite so black.

In the light of their young happiness

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — This is not going to please America's hair stylists but we have it on unimpeachable authority straight from the athletic department that these new fangled up-do hair fixes are making soft-dawdlers out of a generation of high school and college girls.

Grover

ington, if you've forgotten) high schools, says it is a shame.

"The girls simply won't do anything which might muss up their hair unless they are forced to," says Miss Meyers.

The curls cause most of the trouble, she says.

"It is a lot of trouble to put curls in, and sometimes expensive. So they don't like to play games. They don't like to work out on the horizontal bars. They dislike swimming."

Sometimes, she says, they will stop right in the middle of a game to tuck up a stray curl, pin a spiral in place, or fix a comb.

And it's too, too bad.

"They won't get in and rough it up in a game the way they did when hair styles were different."

It is too bad, she mourns, for it so happens that the girls lately have adopted a style of dress that is particularly fitting to athletic types.

"Hardly any girls wear high heels to school any more. Low heels, jackets, sweaters, and practical clothing have come in to the exclusion of more uncomfortable dress."

What is the remedy? There always ought to be a remedy.

"I'd like to see the girls come back to a more suitable type of hair style. The short bob was the ideal. Girls with bobbed hair played hard without fear of mussing up their hair. It always looked well. There were no curls to bother with."

Miss Meyers is a bobbed-hair herself. Her hair is brown. She has described as a dynamic. That seems to be true of most women athletic director. Without being especially pretty, she has flair.

There'll Come A Day

And is there any hope for the girls at all?

"This style won't last. Girls will put it aside in time. They still wear sports clothes for the most part. They prefer them. They won't let hair interfere indefinitely."

Meantime it is a hard job to keep the girls coming to the gymnasium classes, even though in the District it is compulsory.

"They particularly object to overhead showers, the old style. It wrecks their hair. Sometimes it is hard to get them to take showers after their classes."

Slowly improvements are being effected. Showers are being installed in the newer high schools which shoot out a spray at shoulder level instead of overhead.

Some of the girls wear loose fitting rubber caps when they shower, but without lockers for each girl it is hard to keep them around.

"They ought to have hair-drying machines. But you simply can't get any money for girls' athletics. If ever there is a cut in appropriations it comes out of girls' athletics. Boys get uniforms for games, lockers, and towels. But not girls."

Seems we have heard that before some place.

Isaar—Peter and Alfred Hansen and Wymer Schroeder returned home from Milwaukee Tuesday afternoon, spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lausten.

Mrs. Fred Melchert celebrated her birthday anniversary Sunday at her home. Those attending from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melchert and son Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Melchert of Seymour, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Melchert and son Ralph of Chicago and Esther Melchert of Green Bay.

A large crowd attended the party given by the women of the St. Sebastian church Sunday evening in the basement of the church.

A LITTLE HELP NOW WOULD BE BETTER THAN A LOT LATER.

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The best one-man show in the Wisconsin state senate is still being provided by that inveterate radical, Harry W. Bolens of Port Washington, old-fashioned Democrat.

By common consent of the 133 lawmakers who are not at all modest in contemplating their own abilities, Senator Harry is the master of them all. Seventy-five years of age, recently recovered from a near-fatal illness, portly, human, but bitter and relentless in battle, the senate would be a lonesome place indeed were he to leave.

Considered academically, Bolens is almost a perfect example of the terrific mortality rate which starts the ambitious young politician in the face. After more than 50 years of toil in the vineyard (he has been active in his party since the time of Horace Greeley), seemingly possessing all that a politician requires, speaking talent, a social nature, wit, adaptability, at the climax of his career he has reached the relatively unexcited place of a state senator.

Last fall, when one of the bigger prizes finally came to him, the nomination for governor, it was only by default. He took the standard when nearly everyone else had scorned it. And he carried it to a forelorn end.

WORTH HEARING

Harry Bolens is worth spending some time in the senate galleries to hear.

His voice begins rolling like a far-off rumble, in a few minutes will reach a crescendo heard throughout the south wing of the huge capitol building. To Phil Nelson, leader of the battered Progressive forces, he shouts: "You will get a front pew in the Progressive heaven."

When Senator G. Eric Ingram wonders why Bolens persists with such deadly vigor in abolishing the LaFollette reorganization program, and asks for some reasons, he thunders menacingly, with pointed, pudgy finger: "You're one of them."

Despite his ferocity in debate, however, Bolens gets along famously with all his fellows, friend and foe. And he is easily the No. 1 favorite of the press gallery this winter.

The best testimonial to his character is this document recently adopted by the body of which he is a member:

"On the thirteenth day of January, in the year of Our Lord, 1864, there appeared on this continent one who sniffed eagerly the lingering smoke of Gettysburg, then yelled lustily for the battle of Appomattox to commence:

"As infant, child, youth, man and patriot he has long since passed the biblical three score years and ten as the Scorpary Warrior in the roles of student, scholar, sage, solon and septuagenarian."

"He has trod the pantheon of the past with the dignity of Cato the Elder, wit sparkling his feudal song and the wisdom of Solomon, Buddha, Confucius, Mentor and Plato permeating the eloquence of his orations and oracles."

"He has counted his life by the calendars but has subdued space and time by power alone while youth pursued him through the fleeting years."

"We do hereby felicitate Senator Harry W. Bolens on the diamond anniversary of his birth, and be it further:

RESOLVED, That we congratulate ourselves for having been privileged to live during his lifetime, thus to enjoy his companionship and his counsel, and be it further:

RESOLVED, That God willing, Senator Bolens reach the state of eotogenarian while remaining forever young, the while his footsteps echo through the corridors of the capitol and of time."

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

HARD BREATHING

Where the efficiency of the heart is reduced for any reason, or where the reserve power is low, one of the most familiar manifestations is labored breathing on exertion.

I advise every mature adult who reads this and is not actually crippled or under medical care, to test the efficiency or reserve power of his heart by trying to run half a mile. Take your own gait. If you can't keep running for that distance there's something wrong with you, and you had better have medical advice at once. Any normal adult under sixty should be able to run a mile without getting "windy."

If you find you have to slow down to a walk before you are past the half way post, or anywhere along the home stretch, don't take it too badly, for there are literally millions of ginks, well, hundred thousands anyway, who are suffering with the same trouble as yours, namely, suboxidation.

Maybe you need a regular daily stint of hard breathing. Not deep breathing exercise. That's silly business and never gets you anywhere. I mean natural hard breathing. What I'm trying to do is sugar coat the pill. There is only one breathing, and that is by exercising vigorously enough to induce hard breathing. Incidentally, let it be belly breathing, and forget you have a chest.

It doesn't matter much what form of exercise you do, as long as it happens to be useful work of any kind which you can enjoy doing. But otherwise it may be walking, running, skating, dancing, playing a game, climbing a hill or climbing stairs, gymnasium class drill, bicycle riding, or any calisthenic exercise you like.

By conscious deep breathing you can for a minute or two inhale a larger amount of air, oxygen, and indeed overflow your blood with oxygen. But the inevitable consequence is a similar period of slower and more shallow breathing, so that in the end you are right where you were when you started.

But natural deep breathing which is automatic and most efficient if your mind is on something else than your breathing, is not followed by such a period of shallow or slow breathing. Moreover the cause of the natural deep breathing, exercise, also causes the blood to utilize the increased oxygen intake, and that means increased oxidation, increased metabolism, and so you gain something by the regular exercise, period daily. You burn up and readily eliminate or dispose of waste matter which might otherwise give rise to symptoms which you may vaguely ascribe to auto-intoxication. Besides it gives your heart increased efficiency and greater reserve power to serve in an emergency.

Please name four or five physicians who give the ambulant treatment for hernia, all within a mile from my home and give their terms. (R. M. G.)

Answer—On request I am glad to send by mail the name and address of a physician skilled in the injection treatment of hernia, if I know of one in your vicinity—say within a hundred miles. Enclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address. In no instance can I tell a correspondent what any treatment will cost or what a physician's fees may be.

Coeds Think Bright Socks on Boy Friend are 'Just Darling' But Scorn High Water Pants

BY VIOLA HELLERMANN

BRIGHT socks are "just darling," and so are pipes and tweed suits, said a representative group of Lawrence college co-eds when they were interviewed recently on the subject of college men's clothes and social behavior, but they protested unanimously against "high-water" pants that are four inches above the ground, dirty fingernails, audible gum chewing and cigars.

"But pipes are nice," they agreed. "They look so homey." Others said they liked them because they look collegiate.

Among the girls interviewed were the Misses Betty White, Martha Lyon, Betty Moore, Geraldine Schmidt and Alyce Jane De Long. Appleton: June Selvy, Green Bay; Beverly Humlekner and Abby Sutherland, Fond du Lac; Catherine Helmer, Chicago; Muriel Engelland, Blue Island, Ill.; and Betty Gallup, Elmhurst, Ill.

Included in the group are freshmen as well as seniors, representatives of each of the six social societies, a member of Mortar Board, the campus literary magazine, the assistant social chairman of the student body, two student songstresses and others active on the campus.

Want Harmony

They all like the trend toward more color in men's clothes, but such a combination as blue trousers, a green sweater, a checked jacket and an orange tie they call "repulsive."

Colors are nice if they harmonize, the girls say, and they rather like contrasting coats and trousers—if they're not too loud.

But socks are quite a different matter. "The brighter the better," they say. Socks give the boys their one chance to splurge in color, and whether the design is in stripes or plaids, flaming red or bright yellow or whatever they choose, the girls love them.

Most of them, also, were in favor of the pork-pie hats the boys wear far back on their heads, reversible sport coats and thick-soled shoes. These are some of the things they hate:

"This goo they put on their hair," "Baggy pants," "Clothing with food stains on it," "Dirty fingernails," "Failing to shave before a dance—it pricks," "Wearing an athletic sweater that's never been cleaned until it's almost ready to fall off," "These fellows who chew gum in your ear when you're dancing with them."

Object to Sweat Shirts

They have very definite objections, too, to the sweat shirts which have been seen at the teas given periodically by the Lawrence Women's association. They think it shows very poor taste to say the least, and it is most inconsiderate to the hostess.

"I think it's O. K. for them to come to the teas as they come to class, but they shouldn't wear sweat shirts to class either," one of the girls declared.

Casual clothes are all right for the informal Friday night frolics, they agree, but they abhor the practice of wearing sweaters without a shirt beneath them.

Opinions are divided about business suits at the all-college dances. Some girls feel that if the boys come in day-time clothes the girls should wear street-length dresses too, instead of formals, as they do now. A few girls said they were satisfied with the present custom, that a great many boys couldn't afford evening dress and would therefore miss out on the fun. Others, and they seemed to be in the majority, declared that if the dance was formal for girls it should be for men, too, and they preferred tails to tuxedos, unless the man was quite short.

Should Be Dancers

"And will you please say something about their dancing?" they pleaded. "A boy should know more than the square step and the one two, three, slide. And they shouldn't take such enormous steps, and some of them might learn not to bump into other couples all the time. You'd think some of them danced with their eyes closed. These dancing classes before the Friday night frolics are certainly the thing they need."

It was reassuring to hear from a few other girls that they thought the average Lawrence college male was "a pretty smooth dancer."

The girls are not agreed, either, on the matter of corsages. While most of them favored gardenias or white roses, some of them said they wished the boys would show more originality.

"It's always gardenias," they complain. They suggested, too, that the young man who has original ideas ask his girl ahead of time what color dress she is wearing so that there will be no such sorry sight as pink roses on a red dress.

Other co-eds said corsages were an unnecessary expense.

German Hair-Cuts

German hair-cuts are as removed from corsages as a history exam is from a stroll along the river on a spring night, but the girls leaped easily from one subject to another in their eagerness to air their views.

"I hate German haircuts. They make a boy look all ears, and you can quote me on that," declared Miss June Selvy.

Other opinions were "They look funny on most boys," "They're hard to get used to," "It depends on the boy," "They're nice in summer," and "They're hideous on some fellows." They thought it was an especial tragedy when a boy who had a nice shock of curly hair cut it that way.

"This may sound silly," said one of the girls, "but don't you think some of the boys might pluck their eyebrows a little bit? Not so anyone could notice it—but I don't like eyebrows all straggly in the center of the forehead right over the nose. I suppose they think they'd be sissies to pluck them, but they could do it in the privacy of the bathroom."

They delved into matters of etiquette, too. When a girl asks a man who is not an old friend of hers to a sorority dance, they like to have him arrange a date with her for some day before the dance. Many of them seem to prefer that to a return date later. And most of them would rather be treated as a lady than as a pal that the boys think they can slap on the back.

The co-eds consider it superfluous to say that they despise spats, derbies and canes.

Referring to a recent interview in which a group of college boys made slurring remarks about the disheveled condition of co-eds' coiffures, the girls said in a rather hurt tone of voice that they couldn't understand it. Practically all of them pin their curls up every night. And about mesh stockings. Most of the boys interviewed said they didn't like them, to which one girl had an unanswerable reply. Her Christmas gift from one of the Lawrence boys was a pair of mesh stockings.

OH, BILL, YOU'VE TRACKED UP MY NICE CLEAN FLOOR.

GEE WHIZ, MOTHER, IT'S ALL THAT DUST IN THE CELLAR.

WHY, HOW DO YOU KNOW?

I HEARD THE CLARKS TALKING ABOUT IT.

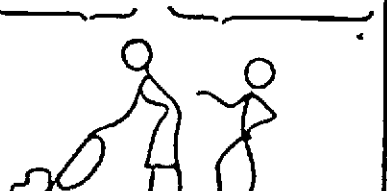

OH, WELL, IT'S PROBABLY TOO EXPENSIVE FOR US.

NO SIREE, MR. CLARK SAID IT WAS THE CHEAPEST HEAT THEY'D EVER HAD.

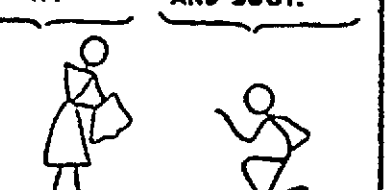

I KNOW, IT'S PRETTY BAD, ISN'T IT?

YOU BET! WHY DON'T YOU AND DAD TRY FORD COKE? THAT'S REALLY CLEAN.

MRS. CLARK? WHAT DID SHE SAY?

SHE SAID IT KEPT THE WHOLE HOUSE CLEANER, MUCH LESS DIRT AND SOOT.

I'LL SPEAK TO DADDY ABOUT FORD COKE TONIGHT.

GEE, I WISH YOU WOULD. EVERY TIME I GO DOWN CELLAR YOU MAKE ME TAKE A BATH.

Lawrence A Cappella Choir Replaces Glee Club So Old Dress Suits Rest in Cedar

THIRTY-FIVE "claw-hammer" dress suits of pre-war vintage, green with age and cut to a fashion long since out-moded, now repose in moth balls and cedar in the East annex of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. Remnants of the heyday of the famed Lawrence Men's Glee club, they passed into oblivion when that organization was superseded by the present Lawrence A Cappella choir 10 years ago.

Along with the claw-hammer suits have gone the popular ditties, "She Felt Her Belt at the Back" and "Old Man Noah," and, in their stead, the symphonic arrangements of colorful Negro spirituals and semi-popular favorites, such as "When Day Is Done" and "Old Man River," are included in the varied program to be presented by the 1939 Lawrence choir.

The one individual who has witnessed this change and has in a large measure been instrumental in bringing it about is none other than Dean Carl J. Waterman, affectionately known as "Judge" by his choristers. His career at Lawrence coincides with the rise in popularity of the Men's Glee club and the subsequent founding of the A Cappella choir and its spectacular growth. In 1911 the "Judge" took over the leadership of the Lawrence Men's Glee club, which toured extensively in Wisconsin and nearby states, barnstorming for the college. The last tour made by this organization was in the spring of 1931. At this time the A Cappella choir, an infant organization of two years' growth, began to outshine its sire and was given the limelight in its first tour—taken in the spring of 1932. Since that time its rise to prominence has been steady and sure.

Starting first with concerts in medium sized Wisconsin cities, it soon moved into the metropolitan areas and in the past two seasons has presented concerts in Chicago's Goodman Theater and at the Elmhurst Milwaukee before enthusiastic audiences and critics who were loud in their praise of this "pearl among choirs."

This year, according to Marshall Hubert, manager of the choir, there will be a concert in Minneapolis, climaxing the annual spring tour, which will include several cities in northern Wisconsin. Other short trips are planned for later spring.

The home concert, presented as a number of the current Artist Series, will be given at Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday evening, Feb. 16. Tickets are now on sale at Bell's Drug store.

Neenah Pair Wed in Morning Ceremony

WILL ATTEND COLLEGE, UNIVERSITY PROMS

Tonight is prom night at two large Wisconsin schools, and among the young women who will take part in the festivities are these five Appleton girls, four of whom will attend the Mount Mary college prom at Milwaukee and one, the University of Wisconsin's gala affair. The three girls in the top row, Miss Mary Kay Steinberg, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Steinberg, 523 N. Durkee street, Miss Jo Ann Konrad, center, and Miss Mary Rose Konrad, right, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Konrad, 224 W. Sixth street, will dance at the Mount Mary college party, as will also Miss Agatha Schmidt, lower right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, 423 W. Prospect avenue. They are all students at the college, except Miss Steinberg, who is an alumna, having been graduated last June. Miss Theo Wassenberg, lower left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wassenberg, 158 W. Foster street, will be a guest at the University of Wisconsin prom tonight in the Memorial Union at Madison. (Wassenberg photo by Froelich.)

Troyer Tells Quill, Scroll Members About Journalism

EARLY journalists satisfied the demands of a growing population which wanted to know," Dr. Howard Troyer, associate professor of English at Lawrence college, told active and alumni members of the Quill and Scroll society at the annual banquet Thursday evening at the Conway hotel. Dr. Troyer described the beginnings of journalism in the early seventeenth century.

Proving that Dorothy Dix and Robert Ripley have their prototypes, Dr. Troyer read excerpts from the Athenian Mercury, one of the early London papers. Even the advertisements, he showed, have changed only slightly.

"My only criticism of these columnists," he said, "is also my criticism of modern journalists. They were too easily satisfied with the conventional answers. They were not truly creative minds."

Honor Appleton poet Since Edward Weismiller, a young Appleton poet, recently commented to the patron of the local Quill and Scroll chapter, part of the program was devoted to accounts of life and human interest stories about him. Robert Johnson described his life as a student at Appleton High school while Jeanne Foote read his essay which won first prize in "Stardust," the literary publication of Quill and Scroll. Lola Mae Zuehlke offered informal notes on his work as a Rhodes scholar at Oxford university.

Between courses a sextet composed of John Meyer, Robert Meyer, Roland Vogt, Leo Griesbach, Roland

Woehler, and Emerson Jury entertained the group. Lois Sieth accompanied at the piano. The history of "Patterns of Stardust," the booklet now published jointly by the Quill and Scroll and the high school English department, was presented by William Wolfe. An original Quill and Scroll song set to music by Albert Wickesberg and arranged by Peggy Boyer was sung for the first time.

Donald Bohl presided as master of ceremonies. The program was planned by Ralph Schubert, chairman, Elizabeth Heckel and Robert Wilch. Miss Esther Graef was the faculty adviser.

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Don't take chances on products you know nothing about or rely on temporary relief when there's need of a good general system (tonic like time-proven Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots. Let Pinkham's Compound help build up more physical resistance and thus aid in calming jangled nerves, lessen distress from female functional disorders and make life worth living.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Pinkham's—over 1,000,000 women have written in reporting glorious benefits—it MUST BE GOOD!

Trinity Aid Society Names 2 Committees

TWO standing committees for the year were appointed at the meeting of Ladies Aid society of Trinity English Lutheran church Thursday afternoon in the sub auditorium of the church. Mrs. Alvin Greunke and Mrs. Harlowe Wickert were named to the visitation committee and Mrs. Harry Cotter, Mrs. William Cotter and Mrs. J. Endter to the kitchen committee.

Arrangements were made for a Valentine party Feb. 14 for the congregation. Mrs. Albert Roehl, Mrs. Wickert, and Mrs. Nick Marx will have charge of the kitchen and Mrs. George Johnson and Mrs. Julius Koppin of entertainment. For the father and son banquet which the women will serve Feb. 21 Mrs. Herman Behlender and Mrs. William Klahorst will take charge of the kitchen and Mrs. Charles Fahrkrug of the dining room. A spring sale will take place in April.

Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist church, will leave Monday morning for Chicago to attend a meeting of the international council of religious education of the Methodist church which will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Hotel Stevens. He is a member of the Wisconsin conference, board of education and will attend the meeting next week in that capacity.

Ground Hog Sees Shadow but Only Brings Encouragement To Sleighride Enthusiasts

THE ground hog saw his shadow yesterday and there should be six more weeks of winter, but the numerous persons who want another sleighride before the season is over aren't taking any chances. They're having them now, as those reported here indicate.

Yesterday afternoon a group of north side mothers gave a sleighride party for their children. The young guests were Jerry Lurie, Gene Rosholt, Janet McBain, Carol and Jimmy Reeder, Beverly Schroeder, Lorna Schroeder, Donald Ulich, Patricia Slattery, Janice Miller, Jeanne Schnabel, Jeanne Crane, Rodney Barkow, Marion and Charles Rowland and Bobby Temple.

Members of the Appleton High school chorus went sleighriding last night and had lunch at the Hearsthouse Tea room afterward.

Girls Friendly society will have a sleighride Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 at All Saints Episcopal church. After the ride the group will go to the Sidney Wells residence at Combined Locks for supper.

Court whist prizes were won by Miss Dorothy Hodge, Miss Dolores Filz, Gordon Fish and Kenneth Biebow. Other guests were the Misses Jeanette Vandenberg, Marion Wickert, Dorothy Mader and Gladys Lust, Bill Morris, Earl Felting, Ernst Wickert and Jerome May.

Mrs. Alex F. Sauter, 6 Bellaire court, entertained at dinner at her home last evening in honor of Miss Leone Steidl who will leave Sunday for a southern trip and cruise. Covers were laid for seven. Chinese checkers were played during the evening and prizes won by Miss Thea Steidl and Miss Nell Chamberlain.

Mrs. Peter Vollmer, W. Prospect avenue, was surprised by a few friends last night on the occasion of her birthday anniversary. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rooney.

Troop 2 of Girl Scouts of St. Joseph's church sponsored an open card party last night at the parish hall, nine tables being in play. Schafskopf prizes were won by Mrs. Carl Fose and Mrs. Joseph Griesbach, bridge awards by Mrs. Chris Roemer and Mrs. A. F. Dallman. Fond du Lac, the latter a house guest of Mrs. Fred Kobussen, and the dice prize by Adeline Walsh.

Past Matrons of Star Hold Party at Hotel

Mrs. Werner Witte, junior past matron of Eastern Star, received a guest prize at the meeting of Past Matrons club of Fidelity chapter last night in the Gold room of Conway hotel. Dinner was served and bridge was played, prizes at contract going to Mrs. Mathilda Wildhagen and Mrs. James B. Wage and at auction to Mrs. Fern Meyer and Mrs. J. T. Gillespie. The committee in charge included the Misses Marion Esch, Janet Miller, Betty Tornow, Shirley Schultz, Katherine Mader, Barbara Wetzel, Lois Rahmlow, Clara Salm, Doris Leiter, and Debra Rochon, Merrill Meyer, Dick Pardee, Jay Parish, Art Weber, Dick Jahnke, Harvey West, Glenn Elmont, Howard Boyce, Mickey McGuire, Stuart Ramsay, Earl Laabs, Gerald Savall, Dick Mollnes, Spencer Calmes, Stanley Williamson, Lewis Blong, Ed Van Heutchen, James Schmidt, Bob Chady and Dan Moser.

Supervisor Completes Inspection of Grades

Miss Delia E. Kibbe, elementary school supervisor of the state department of public instruction, has completed an inspection of the grades below high school at Hortonville, Seymour and Kimberly. Henry J. Van Straten, county superintendent of schools, and the county rural school supervisors, accompanied Miss Kibbe on the inspection tour.

Relief Corps Committees Are Named

STANDING committees for the year were appointed at the meeting of the Woman's Relief corps, No. 50, auxiliary to George D. Eggleston post, Grand Army of the Republic, at a meeting Thursday afternoon at Elks hall. Named to the Americanization committee were Mrs. John R. E. Miller, chairman, Mrs. Harry Leftwich, Mrs. Albert Johnlin, Mrs. Mary Walker and Mrs. August Haferbecker. Other appointments were Mrs. Ernestine Somme, Mrs. Olive Spencer, home and employment chairman, Mrs. Emma Hiltner, Mrs. John Woehler and Mrs. Matt Bauer, conference committee; Mrs. John R. E. Miller, Mrs. Gilbert Trentlage and Mrs. W. F. Haurt, Memorial day committee; Mrs. Edward Peotter, child welfare chairman; Mrs. Otto Reetz, executive committee chairman; and Mrs. John Woehler and Mrs. John Wagner, dining room chairman.

A public card party March 2, Mrs. Theodore Sanders is chairman of the affair. Plans also were made for the next meeting, on Feb. 16, when a patriotic tea and program appropriate to the birthday anniversaries of Lincoln and Washington will be given under the direction of Mrs. Miller, the corps' patriotic instructor. Mrs. Matt Bauer will be social chairman for the day. A shower of canned food also will be given that day, the food to be used by the child welfare chairman in her work.

A special prize awarded at yesterday's meeting went to Mrs. William Barker.

Casa Bridge club met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Merrill Hopkins, 420 W. Summer street. Honors at the game went to Mrs. Edward Reider, Mrs. Wilbur Reick and Miss Sara Westberg. Mrs. Reick also won the traveling prize. Mrs. Reider will entertain the club next week at her home on W. Spring street.

Mrs. Charles Selig was hostess to the Thursday club yesterday afternoon at her home on E. South River street. The afternoon was spent playing schafskopf, with prizes going to Mrs. Peter Dietzen, first, and Mrs. Peter Whydowski, second. Mrs. Dietzen will entertain the club next week at her home on W. Rogers avenue.

Mrs. S. A. Konz won first prize and Mrs. August Arndt, a guest.

Church Groups Hear Beck Discuss Novel By William Maxwell

William Maxwell's novel, "They Came Like Swallows," was described as an achievement in vitality of theme and unity of effect by Warren Beck, professor of English at Lawrence college, in the second of his series of lectures Thursday morning at First Congregational church under the auspices of Circles 1 and 2 of Women's Association. He discussed the book as an example of the fact that a novel need not conform to any set pattern, and that new works of art should not be discounted simply because they do not coincide with conventional notions about art forms.

"Some critics have attacked this book on the grounds that it is too fragmentary, episodic and unsubstantial to be called a novel," Mr. Beck said. "That is pseudo-classical criticism which assumed that a given type of literature must have certain prescribed dimensions, a specific gravity. The critic's function, however, is not to throw a fit whenever tradition is modified, but to consider the individual case on its own merits. In other words, literary form is no more sacred than a pie pan, about which the only question is 'Will it hold the pie, and will it permit the pie to be taken out for consumption?'"

Will the form of a novel hold the content the author wants to put into it, and convey that content to us with the effect the author desires us to feel?"

The speaker explained that the title, "They Came Like Swallows," is derived from six lines of poetry by Yeats which are quoted by Maxwell to tell what the theme of his story is to be.

"These lines show that not multiplication of pages and dramatic incidents nor tracing of life lines from beginning to end, is Maxwell's purpose, but rather the lucid and moving expression of a single sustained mood about a mother and her two sons and her husband and their life as a family. The image of the circling swallows in a symbol of the life of Bunnie and Robwon second, when Mrs. L. H. Elser entertained the North Side Bridge club Thursday afternoon at her home on N. Oneida street. Mrs. Peter Williamson, E. Wisconsin avenue, will be hostess to the club next week.

Mrs. Morton C. Hill, E. Pacific street, will be hostess to Sigma Alpha Iota alumnae at a desert-bridge at 7:30 Monday night at her home.

All Methodist Women to Join In World Tea

METHODIST women around the world, among them those of First Methodist church, Appleton, will join next Tuesday in holding the largest tea party in history, when 3,000,000 strong they unite in friendship and good will as they take part in the third international fellowship tea sponsored by the woman's department of the Million Unit Fellowship Movement of the Methodist church.

Local plans call for the international tea to follow the regular meeting of Social Union at 2:30 in the afternoon. As the purpose of the tea is to bring before the church women the work of the various world service boards of the church, the seven boards will be represented at seven tables, each containing literature, posters and other items of interest describing the work of that board. The boards are foreign missions, home missions, education, hospitals and homes, pensions and relief, temperance, prohibition and public morals, and American Bible society.

The Rev. I. E. Schlagenhauf, district superintendent of Appleton district, will be the speaker, and tea will be served by Circle 2, Mrs. F. F. Wheeler is general chairman of the event.

Plans for a potato pancake supper to be served Feb. 15 were made at the meeting of St. Paul Ladies Aid society Thursday afternoon at the school hall. Mrs. Anna Teske was appointed kitchen chairman.

Mrs. Fred Steckeberg chairman of the tickets and Mrs. A. J. Rehmer dining room chairman. About 85 women attended the meeting.

Social Aid of Emmanuel Evangelical church will invite guests to a "measuring" party on March 2, according to plans made at a meeting Thursday afternoon at the church. Each woman will pay one cent for each inch of her height.

Mrs. John Trautman and Mrs. Nick Zylstra sang a duet, "The Master Touched My Heart Strings." They were accompanied by Mrs. Bert and James Morison, each winging his own way, each always impetuous and at times even erratic, and yet each returning from his most vagrant ellipse still within the wide circumference of Elizabeth's love and care."

Judge Whiting Speaks At Rotary Gathering

Semour — Judge Whiting of Antigo was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis club this week. He pointed out that it is necessary to keep boys and girls interested in sports and play around the year around to keep their minds occupied and they will be kept from going the road to ruin. He showed that placing individuals on probation after having violated the law, has proved to be more beneficial and successful. The program opened with tricks performed by Mr. R. Gluesing, a magician. The meeting was in charge of the music committee headed by Michael Burns.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Evangelical church is observing self-denial week and will hold a special prayer meeting next Sunday morning at 9 o'clock preceding the regular services at which time prayer day will be observed.

The annual public supper of the Brotherhood of the Methodist church will be held Feb. 15.

The city council of Semour at its last session extended the time for the payment of real estate taxes in the city to March 1.

Motorists Fined For Breaking Parking Law

Two motorists, arrested by city police yesterday and charged with violating the city 60-minute parking ordinance, this morning pleaded guilty in municipal court of Judge Harry Steffen. About 40 women were present.

The Evening circle of the Presbyterian Guild will conduct a bake sale beginning at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at Geenen's. Mrs. Carl Schroeder, Mrs. Elmer Mokros, Mrs. Fred Klenitz and Mrs. Alex Pierre will be in charge.

John Harriman Gets His Papers For Council Job

Wilfred C. Kaufman to Oppose Thompson in Second Ward

Two new candidates took out nomination papers for aldermanic posts today, swelling the total seeking city council jobs to 62, according to Carl J. Becher, city clerk. Two men filed papers for supervisor and one for alderman.

F. John Harriman, 401 N. Clark street, incumbent Second ward alderman announced his candidacy for the city council post in the new first ward. His opponents are Earl Bates, 116 E. Kimball street, Richard Latimer, 614 N. Oneida street, Arnold Miller, 618 N. Superior street and Leland R. Feavel, 403 N. Oneida street.

Wilfred C. Kaufman, 219 N. Durkin street, took out papers for the city council post in the Second ward. He is the first candidate to oppose Alderman Thompson, the incumbent in that ward.

George Brautigam, incumbent Fourth ward alderman, filed his papers this morning for the post in the new Thirteenth ward. He is opposed by Edward G. Gust and Ignatius Bourassa.

Henry C. Voeltz, 921 N. Appleton street, filed his papers for the supervisory job in the new Fifth ward where he is one of three candidates and Fred Krause, 128 S. Tellus avenue, filed papers for the county board job in the Thirteenth ward.

Nomination papers must be filed in city hall by Feb. 22.

Agreement Averts Radio Walkout

Two Major Chains and Artist Sign 2-Year Contract

New York—A threatened nationwide strike of radio entertainers was averted today with the signing of a two-year agreement between the American Federation of Radio Artists and two major broadcasting chains.

The agreement resulted from negotiations which had been in progress since Monday, after nearly 2,000 members of the union had cast a nationwide strike vote.

The contract, signed by the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system, was announced jointly by the A. F. R. A. and a committee for advertisers, representing sponsors of commercial network programs.

The federation, an A. F. of L. affiliate headed by Eddie Cantor, includes such stars as Jack Benny, Phil Baker, Edgar Bergen and Bing Crosby.

Terms of the settlement, announced last night, provided for minimums for actors, announcers and singers.

They were announced as:

Actors: Minimum of $15 for 15-minute programs or less $25 for a half-hour and $35 for an hour; on 13-week arrangements a guaranteed minimum of $105 a week for one 15-minute broadcast per day, five days a week, $100 for four days a week, and $80 for an hour.

Singers: Soloists, 15 minutes or less, $40; half-hour, $50; 45 minutes, $60; one hour, $70; rehearsals, $6 an hour; Class 1—Groups of nine or more voices, $14 for 15 minutes or less; $16 for 30 minutes; $18 for 45 minutes and $20 for an hour; rehearsals, $4 an hour.

Announcers: $15 for 15 minutes, $25 for 30 minutes; $35 an hour; rehearsals, $6 an hour; on a 13-week basis, a guaranteed minimum of $75 a week for 15 minutes a day, five days a week.

A. F. of L. Planning to Set up Textile Union

Miami, Fla.—The American Federation of Labor's executive council neared the half-way point of its winter meeting today, concerned with jurisdictional rivalries inside the organization and plans for setting up new unions to rival CIO affiliates.

The most important new union the council probably will authorize at this session will be in the textile field, where A. F. of L. organizers claim they have enrolled 40,000 mill workers in the last year in federal labor unions.

The council also has tentative plans for chartering new unions for cement and flour mill workers.

Panther Patrol Meets At Tiesling Residence

Arthur Tiesling entertained the boy scouts of the Panther patrol of Troop 1 at his home last night. Those present were Thomas Kamp, Karl Hoelzel, Carl Schaar, Robert Dertus, David Van Rossum, and Duane Bates. The next meeting will be at the home of Thomas Bates.

Barber Class Starts At Vocational School

Barbers from cities and villages near Appleton will be invited to attend the next barbering class at the Appleton Vocational school next Wednesday evening. Carl Bertram, school co-ordinator, said today.

The class, instructed by Leonard Kabat, met for the first time last Wednesday evening, with 15 Appleton barbers present.

Iowa Legislature in Budget Cutting Mood

Des Moines, Iowa—The Iowa legislature's economy program advanced another notch yesterday as the house of representatives adopted its second proposed departmental consolidation bill. The measure, designed to save $40,000 each biennium, would consolidate state library functions.

Feb. 24 Is Tentative Date for 4-H Banquet

The forum committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce yesterday set Feb. 24 as the tentative date for the third annual 4-H club banquet. It will be held at the Masonic Temple.

J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent, will be in charge of the program. D. Purdy is chairman for banquet arrangements and Kenneth H. Corbett for ticket sale.

Senator Assails Ashe for Opposing Importation Tax

Bolens in Bitter Attack on Head of State Commerce Chamber

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—What was accounted today the most vehement personal attack heard in legislative chambers thus far this session was unleashed Thursday by Senator Harry Bolens of Port Washington. Stalwart Democratic whip, upon William F. Ashe, director of the state department of commerce, which will be abolished shortly by legislative act and executive acquiescence.

Whipping himself into a fury which was unusual even for his volatile temperament, Bolens in unbridled language assailed the former Kaukauna industrialist for daring to oppose Bolens' bill to place a 15 cent a pound tax on cottonseed oil and other hard substances.

Ashe, who was instructed to oppose the bill by the advisory board of the department of commerce, was accused, Bolens charged heatedly, only by selfish motives.

"One carload factory in the Fox river valley might lose a little business making cartons for dairy substitutes if my bill is passed," he belittled.

That Ashe should presume to question the validity of Bolens' measure, the Democratic leader shouted, was "selfish, contemptible, and small," an act which invited "the destruction of Wisconsin dairy interests."

"I don't like to indulge in personal attacks on anybody," he went on, "but the first time he (Ashe) comes before us in the legislature he comes with an interest in destroying. That's what's wrong with manufacturers. Business when in power is seldom fair. That's why I'm the only manufacturer in this legislature." (Bolens is a manufacturer of garden tractors.)

In the first evidence we have of the existence of this department, its $7,000 a year director has become in a few short months a lobbyist of the worst type."

Bolens accused Ashe of forgetting "his duty to the industry and livelihood of Wisconsin."

Ashe, who this week had accepted the prospect of abolition of the department for which he left an executive position with a Kaukauna paper manufacturing firm last summer, appeared cheerful at the legislature's lethal verdict.

"I know a lot more about politics than I knew six months ago," was his only comment.

Umuth Is Named Counter Freezer Association Head

85 Members of State Organization at Meeting Here

Martin Umuth of Appleton was elected president of the Wisconsin Counter Freezer association at its meeting yesterday in the Hotel Appleton.

About 85 members of the state association assembled here yesterday, primarily to discuss legislation affecting them. Umuth announced today that the next meeting probably will be held at Madison in April.

Other officers elected at the meeting were as follows: S. M. Sutherland, West Bend, first vice president; H. Baker, Fort Atkinson, second vice president; E. Wirth, Janesville, third vice president; A. J. Crawford, Madison, fourth vice president; John Hensley, Port Washington, secretary; W. E. Griese, Milwaukee, treasurer.

E. K. Salter, editor of the Ice Cream Review, and O. B. Pratt, divisional sales manager of the Badger Co-operative, were principal speakers at yesterday's meeting.

DEATHS

MRS. ANNA LOUISE SHORT
Mrs. Anna Louise Short, 48, route 1, Fond du Lac, former Appleton resident, died at 8:30 yesterday morning at Fond du Lac after a brief illness. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jennerjahn.

Born May 5, 1890, in Appleton, she lived in this city until she was 18, when she moved to White Hall, Ill. After seven years, she returned to Appleton, remaining here until 1924. She then lived two years in Oshkosh and moved to Fond du Lac 12 years ago.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Elmer Kurth, Fond du Lac; Lucille Kraus, route 1, Fond du Lac; one sister, Mrs. John H. Verhagen, Appleton; two brothers, William Jennerjahn, Appleton; August Jennerjahn, St. Onge, S. D.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon at Zacherl Funeral home in Fond du Lac and later in the afternoon at Riverside chapel at Appleton. Burial in Riverside cemetery.

FREIBURG FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Luella Freiberg, 51, 313 W. Commercial street, were held yesterday afternoon at Wichmann Funeral home and at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church with the Rev. A. Guenther in charge. Burial was in Riverside cemetery. Members of the Ladies Aid society of the church and the American Legion auxiliary of the Oney Johnston post attended.

Bearers were Edward Brunner, Raymond Schultz, Ben Greb, Carl Rehfeldt, George Krueger, and Robert Boldt.

The Rinks Today

Park board workmen today were flooding Jones park ice rinks to prepare them for the ice races in connection with the Winter Sports Festival Saturday and Sunday. Harold Jerke, parks superintendent, asked skaters to stay off the rink until after the races. The rink will be flooded again Saturday afternoon. Erb park rink is in fine shape for skating, he said.

Milder Tomorrow, Weatherman Says

Thermometer Stays Near Zero Today Despite Bright Sun

Bright sunlight hooded the landscape in Appleton and vicinity today, but it couldn't bring the mercury out of its chilly mood.

The thermometer hit a 24-hour low at 8 o'clock this morning when it registered two above zero. By 1 o'clock this afternoon it had risen only eight degrees and stood at 10 above.

Continued cold tonight, fair and warmer tomorrow is the forecast for this area issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau. The sky today was almost unblemished and had the appearance of July, but it actually was one of the coldest days of the winter.

Highest temperature recorded during the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning was 20 above, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Budapest Bomb Blast Damages Jewish Church

Budapest—A bomb explosion in the heart of Pest, the commercial section of Budapest, injured many persons today and damaged the Dohany street synagogue, largest Jewish place of worship in the city.

The explosion in the synagogue courtyard came just as worshippers were entering the rambling structure.

The blast heard several miles away, occurred as a parliamentary committee was considering legislation for control of Jews.

Authorities regarded the bombing as a political demonstration.

It Is Said--

Car wheels spin ineffectually and pedestrians walk stiff-legged on the icy pavements in Appleton these days, but yesterday there was a group of youngsters who had the right idea for adapting themselves to conditions.

Several youths were skating along E. North street late yesterday afternoon, moving as smoothly as though they were on a fast-frozen river.

Dance, Style Show Will Open Winter Sports Festival

Variety of Numbers Arranged to Entertain Party-Goers Tonight

Roosevelt Denies He Said Rhine Is American Frontier

many people, some members of the house and senate and some newspaper owners were putting before the public a deliberate misrepresentation of facts.

Mr. Roosevelt said he always had believed foreign policy should not be involved in politics, and he did not think the 1940 campaign should enter into the situations as to foreign policy and American defense in the year 1939.

"Pure Guesses" All the people had to do, he declared, was to read the headlines to realize the pure guesses in connection with his conferences. He added these guesses became dressed up the next day to assume a factual position.

Asked to state exactly what happened at his conference with the military committee, to clarify the situation, the president said he already had given the press that in his restatement of foreign policy.

He said the question of secrecy was 100 per cent bunk. To illustrate, Mr. Roosevelt said some reports reached the government which were believed to be reasonably true but which probably could not be proved in a court.

Against Publicity

He did not believe it advisable to give out such information at his press conferences, he continued, because first, it may not be absolutely correct, and second, making it public would terminate getting future information from the same sources.

The only information withheld was of this character, the president asserted. He said he had told the senators some of this kind of information, but believed it should not be made public because future information may put a different light on it.

Erroneous Reports

The president said he had 14 or 15 newspapers before him which gave erroneous reports of what took place at the conference with the senate committee. He added that the original reports were qualified by such phrases as "it is learned" and "it is understood" but that future editorials and news stories treated the original reports as fact by not repeating the qualifications as to authenticity and failing to mention contradictions.

The public, Mr. Roosevelt said, knows pretty well when it reads such reports that they are not news but merely rumors.

Asked about the "American frontier is on the Rhine" statement, the president, with a smile, declared some boob got that off.

He noted that this report had been attacked in Germany and Italy and applauded in France and Great Britain but that both the attack and the applause had been based on misstatement of fact.

Curious About Origin

The president added that he would like to trace the person who gave out that report.

He replied emphatically in the negative when a reporter asked whether the "frontier catch-phrase" summed up the actual situation.

He also replied negatively when asked whether someone in the committee conference with him had made such a remark to him.

Appleton Doctor Finds Apparent Cure for Acne

Dr. Wallace Marshall Publishes Findings in Medical Magazine

A paper on the apparently successful treatment of acne, a skin disease of which little is known in medical circles, was published by Dr. Wallace Marshall, Appleton, in the February issue of The Medical World.

Acne is usually found in young people in their late teens and early twenties. It is a disease marked by eruptions of the skin on the face, neck and chest, Dr. Marshall said.

Dr. Marshall discovered an apparent cure for the disease in an extract he used in the treatment of nervous persons who also suffered from acne. In collaboration with Dr. J. J. Young, Appleton, Dr. Marshall began treating a group of test cases and found that all showed marked improvement.

"The cases treated were not enough in number to draw definite conclusions," Dr. Marshall said. "However, there seems to be a factor in the extract which generally improves the skin."

Dr. Marshall said the skins of those treated became free of eruptions and the general tone and texture of the skin showed "rapid and lasting improvement." Although he has not isolated the factor that effects the cure, he calls it the "S" factor and believes it is contained in the extract he used. All Appleton family physicians have the extract for treating acne, he said.

Committee Will Take Fire Insurance Bids

The county insurance committee yesterday decided to advertise for additional fire insurance on the Outagamie County Rural Normal school and the Riverview sanatorium at a meeting at the courthouse. The committee will consider proposals on Feb. 28.

enough to the tug to pass a line. The 125-foot Antietam, more easily maneuvered, accomplished the feat and headed for Manitowoc. The cutter, of the patrol boat type, and tug were 20 miles off Manitowoc at 9 a. m. today.

Lieutenant Edwin C. Whitfield commands the Antietam.

The scow, with two men aboard, had broken loose from the tug before the Antietam arrived. It was finally blown onto solid ice extending out from shore near Frankfort, Mich. The two men scrambled across the ice to safety.

2 REACH SHORE

Frankfort, Mich.—Two men aboard a derrick scow which broke loose from a tug in Lake Michigan reached shore last night after a 40-mile an hour gale carried it against ice extending out from the shore.

The tugboat Peter Reiss, with a crew of nine aboard, was being towed to Manitowoc, Wis., today. The scow broke loose from the tug Wednesday night.

With high seas pounding the scow against the ice offshore four miles south of here, coast guardsmen from the Frankfort station aided the two men across the ice from the scow. The men are Charles Christianson and Leo Pates, both of Manitowoc, Wis. Christianson suffered a broken ankle, both were brought to a hospital here after their long exposure.

They had been sending up flares to mark the position of their craft while the coast guard cutters Esplanada and Antietam stood by. When they reached safety the cutters headed for the tug.

The tugboat was towing the derrick scow from Manitowoc to Ludington, Mich., when the towline broke and fouled the tug propeller, causing it to drift helplessly.

Federal Wild Life Refuges Resulted From Hat Fashion

Federal wild life refuges, which today are part of a coordinated land-use program after being recognized that wild life can make the best use of certain areas, resulted from a fashion in women's hats.

Fashion decreed wild bird feathers for the women's hats early in the century, and the extermination of many valuable birds seemed imminent. This threat resulted in the Pelican island refuge off the Florida east coast, created March 14, 1903.

Today the bureau of biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture, administers 250 national wildlife refuges, totaling close to 12 million acres. Of these, 138 are for migratory waterfowl, 60 for other migratory birds, and 10 for big game. During the past calendar year, President Franklin D. Roosevelt established 16 new bird reservations by executive order.

Initially most of the areas set aside for birds were small rocky islands, small tracts of marshland of no agricultural value, and land adjoining reservoirs on reclamation projects. In recent years the biological survey has focused attention on the needs of waterfowl and other migratory birds. Extensive submarginal areas along the main flyways of these birds in the United States have been purchased and set aside for their use.

Offer Hints on Care of Flocks

Hayes Says Raise in Egg Production Caused by Mild Weather

Mild winter weather has acted like artificial lights with the result that egg production has gone up and prices down, John B. Hayes of the state university says in a bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

The bulletin points out that more eggs at present means fewer eggs from the same laying hens in spring. A number of hints on the care of flocks are offered in the bulletin. Water or liquid milk should be kept before a flock at all times, the bulletin states. There is an advantage in warm water since it will not freeze as soon as cold water and offers a supply for a longer time.

Litter is only an insulation material on the floor and should be kept dry. If the litter becomes damp and must be changed weekly or oftener the fault may be found in water spillage, overloading the house, poor floor construction or exposed foundation walls, and the fault should be corrected.

Similar cost and questions regarding cold storage locker plants at a meeting of farmers at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Greenville Gardens. Motion pictures and lantern slides of plant operations will be shown by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

An association for building a cold storage locker plant may be completed at the meeting.

Mechanical 'Fingers'

Save Young Sugar Beet

Sometimes a crust forms over the surface of a sugar beet field before the seedlings are up and seriously affects the stand of healthy plants unless it is broken up, according to a bulletin of the crop reporting service received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

In attempting to break up this crust there is a danger of the tender plants being sheared off by a slight movement of the crust, the bulletin states. The ordinary harrow is very likely to cause such a movement. The land roller breaks the crust without injury to the seedlings but sometimes packs the soil more than is desirable.

Special equipment for breaking such crusts has been designed by engineers of the federal bureau of agricultural engineering. It consists of units of spiked disks similar to small rotary hoe disks, a separate unit for each beet row. The spikes are so curved that they approach the crust like a bent finger from a horizontal hand and break it without causing pieces to move forward or backward or sideways. Some implement manufacturers are now putting out crust breakers of this general type.

Fruit Growers Need Uniform Package Laws

Uniform package laws for fruits and vegetables and uniform regulations as to weights and measures and cited by the bureau of agricultural economics in a bulletin to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent, as major needs for growers and handlers of these perishable farm products.

If state laws were strictly enforced, bureau officials say, the vast interchange in fruits and vegetables between states could be carried on only with extreme difficulty. These conflicts, it is pointed out, tend to nullify each other's efforts which seek to set up trading units whereby the quantity, quality, nature, and value of fruits and vegetables may be easily determined for the purpose of preventing deception and to facilitate trading.

Ground Limestone Project Pushed in Waupaca County

Waupaca—The county lime project has now been in operation for three weeks. During this time 800 tons of ground limestone has been produced and delivered to farmers.

The lime project is located at the Rusham pit, two miles east of New London on Highway 45. Quarrying rock from the limestone ridge is done by WPA labor. County dump trucks haul it to a breaking hopper and the crushed stone run through a special limestone grinder that pulverizes crushed stone. This pulverized material is run over screens and 60 per cent of material must pass a 60 mesh sieve test. Under this system the farmers are assured of excellent agricultural limestone for use to correct acid soils.

Waupaca county sells this lime at 65 cents a ton at the pit. Tests made by the college of agriculture run from 92 to 105 per cent neutralizing value.

If the land owner wants it delivered there is a schedule of rates set up for each town according to the distance which the lime must be hauled. The schedule of rates may be obtained from County Agent Victor Quick.

Many farm soils have been depleted of its lime through years of cropping, sales of whole milk from the farm, sales of livestock and the lack of proper care of farm manures. In addition to this, much lime leaches out of soil through soil water.

Farms must replace not only lime, but phosphate and potash fertilizers. Building back soil fertility is a long time job and the building is best started through a liming program. Farmers may pay the driver and

New London's Ski Riders to Show in St. Paul Contests

Arneson to Compete Against World's Best at National Meet

New London—New London's ski riders and enthusiasts will spread out Sunday to uphold the city's newly acquired skiing fame in tournaments ranging from the national championships to amateur exhibitions.

Invar Arneson and Lawrence Kaja, Wisconsin Rapid boys who rode for the New London Ski Club have been accepted for competition in the National Open Championships at St. Paul Saturday and Sunday.

A feature of the championships at Oconomowoc several weeks ago, will ride in the nation's greatest tournament Saturday. He is 15 years old. Arneson, one-time state champion and winner of many club competitions, will ride against the world's best in Class A on Sunday.

A feature of the championships at St. Paul will be the appearance of Reider Anderson of Norway, present world's champion with a leap of 341 feet, who plans to take the title back to Norway for the third consecutive year.

Appear At Iowa

The rest of New London's registered riders and junior aspirants will go to Iowa to compete in the annual winter sports meet of the Rosholt club. Old-timers Ruben Voss, Franklin Carlson and Les Jacobson will ride. New London's own junior riders, including Tim Kellogg who rode in New London's local tournament last Jan. 2, Delbert Otis and Glen Beckert plan to enter the Rosholt contests.

If arrangements can be made, club secretary C. H. Kellogg plans to take several grade school youngsters, who are learning on the junior hill south of the city, to show their ability at the winter sports carnival which will be held at Jones park at Appleton Sunday. Capable of riding a 40-foot hill are Pat Kellogg, Bob Seering, Keith Geske and Jerome Lund.

Standing committees of the ladies' group will handle the dinner with the following specially appointed: dining room, Mrs. Ralph

Welfare Program Expanding, Men's Club Is Formed

300 Child Cases Given Attention in Waupaca County Last Year

New London—Realization of the need of child welfare work and appreciation of its beneficial results is causing an increase in welfare activities in Waupaca county. Miss Esther M. Fiolat, Waupaca county worker, told the Lutheran Men's club in a talk before the group at the church parlors last night.

About 300 cases received attention during the year 1938, she said, and at present there are 35 children being cared for in 18 licensed foster homes in the county and 65 are under supervision in their own homes.

Miss Fiolat, who has been in Waupaca county since last June, explained her work under the state department of public welfare and the juvenile department of the state board of control. She divides her time between the two services. In August, 1937, the state appropriated funds for a full time county worker but after July, 1939, will pay only half the costs. The Waupaca county board at its last session set up $800 to pay the other half.

Aided by Board

In her work, Miss Fiolat explained she is assisted by the County Children's Welfare board established last year with five members, one each from New London, Clintonville, Manawa, Waupaca and Weyauvegan. The group refers cases, advises and assists. Mrs. J. F. Pfeiffer is the New London member.

The speaker cited several case histories to illustrate her work in assisting delinquent, dependent, neglected, mentally deficient or illegitimate children. Cases are referred to her from the courts, schools, county board or other interested parties. Thorough investigations are made before any action is taken. Arrangements are also made for adoptions.

Entertainment at the meeting consisted of selections on the electric guitar by Miss Phyllis Stern and accordion numbers by Mrs. Arnold Krenke.

State and District Deputies to Visit New London Knights

New London—State and district deputies of the Knights of Columbus will be guests of the New London Council 1797 at a special meeting at the parish hall at 7:30 Monday evening, Feb. 6, according to Grand Knight George Ross. State Deputy William T. Sullivan of Kaukauna and District Deputy Robert M. Connelly of Appleton will be present on special business.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting with W. M. Garot, chairman, Robert and Fredrick Krause in charge.

Plans were made at the regular meeting Wednesday evening to enter a council bowling team in the North Wisconsin K. of C. tournament at Antigo March 25 and 26. Leonard Glime named chairman to assemble teams.

New London Debaters Entered in Tourney

New London—Eight New London High school debaters will participate in the Oshkosh district debate tournament at Appleton High school all day Saturday. Contests will begin at 8:45 Saturday morning and continue all day with 17 schools represented.

On New London's A squad will be Alan Fontstad and Maurice Lavine for the affirmative. Harry Heres and Richard Demming for the negative. Alternates will be Simon Garrow, affirmative, Warren Spurr, negative. Two members of the freshman squad, Robert Patchen and James Christensen, will accompany the debaters for the experience. Each team will take part in three debates.

Benefit Program Provides $84 for Paralysis Drive

Volunteer Workers Sell 693 Tickets in New London Campaign

New London—The largest sale of tickets for a sponsored benefit motion picture ever held in New London theaters netted receipts of $83.90 for the president's infantile paralysis program, according to Ormond W. Capener, chairman of the birthday program.

A total of 693 tickets were sold by volunteer workers for the motion picture, "If I Were King," shown at the Grand theater Monday Tuesday and Wednesday. Proceeds from tickets and box office receipts amounted to $217.80, leaving a 50-50 share of $83.90 after the cost of the film was deducted.

More will be received when the report of the "March of Dimes" collections at public and parochial schools is complete. The sum of $630 was turned in by the Most Precious Blood school yesterday and other miscellaneous donations of $2.65 were received.

The net proceeds are the greatest since the first program, a dance, was held in 1935. At that time $81.76, representing 70 per cent of the total, was left in the city chapter's coffers. Half the proceeds this year will go into a county chest and half will go to the national research foundation.

Royalton Men's Club to Have Monthly Meeting

Royalton—The Royalton Men's club will hold its monthly meeting at the Congregational church Tuesday evening, Feb. 14, at which the newly elected officers will preside.

Mrs. Oscar Haight, president of the Hobart Domestic club, entertained the group at her home, Shady Lane farm, Friday.

With the election of Sunday school officers and teachers and new program of study entered into in 1939, the home department has been resumed for those who cannot attend the sessions of the main school.

The home department is in conjunction with the Bible class and is under the leadership of Miss Marion Dearth, who is teacher of the adult class.

The Royalton Community grange held its fortnightly meeting at the grange hall Wednesday. This Grange will be nine years old in March, and was organized in 1930, by C. Scheller. The original membership roll was as follows: Will Feathers, Fred B. Stratton, Clarence Walker, Irvin Casey, Theodore Helm, M. J. Welson, E. C. Feathers, Mrs. William Feathers, Mrs. F. B. Stratton, Carroll Ritchie, Mrs. Carroll Ritchie, Arthur Ritchie and Arnold Henke.

There are now four granges in Waupaca county: Bear Creek, St. Lawrence, Crystal Lake and Royalton. There is also a County Pamoona grange.

Terrors Will Have Their Hands Full

West Green Bay Invades

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Green Bay West at Appleton.
Fond du Lac at Green Bay East.
Sheboygan North at Manitowish.
Oshkosh at Sheboygan Central.

APPLETON High school cagers have hit the comeback trail but may strike a detour when they meet West Green Bay in a Fox River Valley conference basketball tilt at the new gymnasium at 8:15 tonight. The squad looked pretty good while winning over Sheboygan Central last week and has been showing gradual improvement in drills this week.

Possessed of more confidence and with their shooting eyes sharpened, the Terrors are going out for a 500 rating in conference standings but (and that's a great big "but") Bob Bailey, stellar player, broke his nose during practice this week and it is doubtful whether he will see action. Werner, a senior who is experiencing his first year in varsity tugs and sparked the offensive last week until he committed his fourth foul, has absented himself from school because of a slight illness and is not expected to appear in the tilt.

Therein lies the reason for pessimism which cloaks the prospects for a win tonight. To Bud DeLeest goes the burden of filling Bailey's shoes at guard while the center post probably will be a question mark until game time. Coach Joseph Shields will have to do some fancy shifting if Werner isn't available for the pivot spot.

Fraser at Forward
Fraser showed well at forward last week and will be paired with Besch in the front wall. George Swamp has been looking better with every drill and may be called for heavy duty.

West Green Bay took a 38 to 12 drubbing at Oshkosh last week and will be satisfied with nothing short of a win tonight to make up for the trouncing. The quint scored a 23 to 21 triumph over Appleton in a previous game there and has plenty of talent to stage a repeat performance. One lead off the collective mind of Appleton High school cagers is the graduate of Gordy Muster, big West guard, who dominated play in the previous game.

At any rate, the boys are expected to stage one of those real old fashioned knock 'em down and drag 'em out battles which is typical of Appleton and West Green Bay athletic contests. Both teams have late percentages of .428 with three wins and four defeats apiece and will be fighting to boost their conference ratings.

Reserve teams of the two schools will tangle in a preliminary at 7:15 this evening.

St. John Cagers
In Busy Weekend
Meet Pulaski Tonight at Home and St. Lawrence
There Sunday

Little Chute—Stepping out of conference competition until Feb. 10, St. John High cagers will be host to Pulaski here tonight, and trek to Calvary Sunday to battle St. Lawrence Preps. The game against Pulaski is a return contest, the Dutchmen copping the initial game at Pulaski earlier in the season.

After playing St. Lawrence Sunday afternoon, the locals will swing back into conference competition for three straight games, meeting St. Mary at Menasha, St. Norbert at De Pere and St. Peter of Oshkosh at home in the final game of the conference before entering the tournament at St. Norbert college gym. The meet is scheduled for March 5, 6, 7.

In 14 games the locals have averaged 25.1 points per game for a total of 347 while holding their opponents to 22.7 points.

INSPECTION FOR MAX SCHMELING

Customs Inspector Harry Cohen (right) is shown as he went over the customs declaration of Max Schmeling as the former heavyweight boxing champion arrived in New York. Max emphatically denied that either he or his wife, Actress Anny Ondra, had had any difficulty with Nazi authorities.

Superior All-Stars to Invade Kimberly for Red Hot Battle

KIMBERLY—Another red hot basketball game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the clubhouse when the A.A. champs meet the Superior All-Stars. The schedule for Sunday's game has been moved ahead one hour. The A.A. Reserves will play in the preliminary which will get started at 1:30 with the main game getting underway at 2:30.

Superior All-Stars have played nine games this season and have a record of eight wins, the one defeat being at the hands of Phillips 66 of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, world basketball champions. That game was played at Superior last week and witnessed by more than 1,000 persons.

Superior comes to the village with a rating as good as Beloit and is the North Western champion. It has averaged 49 points per contest while the opponents gathered 25.

The lineup includes Roy Juel, forward, who led Superior college in scoring for three seasons and is a great rebound player. Lowell Darst, rebound, mixes speed with uncanny accuracy and is one of the fastest players at the Head O' Lakes. Pete Schultz, center, played at Superior college for two seasons, he is 6 foot 2 inches and is a great offensive and defensive star; also a fine player on grabbing rebounds.

George Simstad, guard, played at Superior College for two seasons and is an expert at breaking up opponent's plays before they get started. Frank Paquette, another guard who measures 6 foot 3 inches, played at Superior college and is a fine scorer on pivot and rebound shots; plays a smart defensive game.

The Papermakers who have been meeting all comers in keeping with their promise to give fans the best in basketball, have the state pretty well covered. In addition to the Superior game the champs met Niagara, Mattoon, Portage, Beloit and others.

In two of the recent games the Papermakers were pressed. The Waukesha All-Stars gave the Papermakers a hard run during the first half, were defeated during the second half in a whale of a game. Then there was that game last Sunday with Beloit, when the Papermakers took in the last minute of play.

The local team will not take a back seat, however, for they have shown consistent and steady improvement in their recent matches against Waupun, Madison and Fond du Lac and should give the visitors plenty of trouble. The team has shown spirit in recent practice sessions and has been killing the ball with deadly accuracy. The game should be a long one in determining the comparative strength of the leading teams for the Class "A" championship this year.

The local team will show Eugene Mullen, Carl Fuerst, the Rev. C. M. Schendel, Carl Koletzke and Percy Menning as speakers while the setup men will be Robert Heiss, Robert Fetter, Bert Norling, Orville Womser and Dr. G. W. Carlson.

BOXING

New Haven, Conn.—Nathan Mann 190, Hamden, Conn., outpointed Al Gainer, 174, North Haven, Conn., (10).

Philadelphia—Frankie Caris, 172, stopped Walter Sears, 173, Minersville, Pa., (3).

Sydney, Australia—Athlo Sabatino, Puerto Rico, outpointed Oxe Stewart, United States middleweight, (Weights unavailable).

OSHKOSH TEACHERS WIN
Oshkosh 47—Oshkosh Teachers scored a 49 to 37 basketball victory over the Whitewater (Wis.) teachers here last night. Oshkosh took an early lead and at the half held a 23-15 edge. Hoyum of Whitewater was high scorer with 14 points, all registered in the second half.

The "B" teams of both schools will meet in the preliminary at 7:15

Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

Friday, Feb. 3, 1939
Appleton Post-Crescent

Dear Mac,

Not knowing whether you'd be back today, I thought I'd better be on the safe side and drop you a line or three.

Winter sports will come into their own this weekend with the ice skate races, ski jumping, dog derby and hockey games planned by the WPA and the recreation committee of the common council at Jones and Erb parks. It looks like another case of frozen feet for me but it probably will be worth it.

Appleton High school cagers entertain West Green Bay tonight and, while the northerners are supposed to have the edge, I'm going out on the limb for the Terrors. I do not claim to be a forecaster of even mediocre ability but after watching you come out second best with the grid patleys all season I have no qualms about hazarding a guess that Appleton will win tonight.

Stoney McGlynn of a Milwaukee newspaper has the following to say about "Obbie":

One of the state's finest athletes closed his college career last week on alien courts when Al Novakofski, Menasha, played in his finale for the Lawrence College cage Vikas. A fine forward, Al, nevertheless, reached his greatest fame on the gridiron where he made the Midwest conference team two years in a row. This last fall he was the only unanimous choice of the coaches.

Al lacks a lot of the ranginess and heft of some of the big timers, but he's as good a carrier as looked at all last year. He's built close to the ground, has great speed, passes and punts above average and can take it like a tennis ball.

Perhaps it might be well for Coach Carly Lambeau of the Packers to give him the once over. The kids got it and would be a tremendous drawing power from the Appleton-Menasha district. Perhaps his lack of size may be too great a handicap, but we doubt it, and we do know the Packers and other pro clubs have had backs who couldn't carry the Menasha kid's helmet. He's that good and that tough!

Letters, not the chain kind, seem to be popular these days and below is the first reaction to remarks which appeared in this column a few days back. Let's hope there are more of them.

Yours truly,
Dick Davis.

Dear Dick:

I was very much interested in Larry Barker's campaign for the revival of the "Big Four" conference which you mentioned in your letter to Mac. I agree with him when he says that the conference should be revived, but I think it ought to become the "Big Five" and include St. Norbert's. The Green Knights adopted the three year eligibility rule a few years ago and have competed against Lawrence and Carroll in both football and basketball with more than a fair amount of success.

A league including Lawrence, Beloit, Carroll, Ripon and St. Norbert's would do much to build up the athletic status of all the members as Barker stated. The alumni and fans of the schools would be more likely to follow their teams in such a loop than they would in the Midwest conference; the schools are much closer together and there already is a natural rivalry among them. I, for one, would be more interested in a game between Lawrence and St. Norbert's held at Green Bay than in a game between Cornell and Lawrence held at Mount Vernon, Iowa.

I would like to know what you and Mac think about the whole thing.

Yours very truly,
Frank Hammer, Jr.

Dear Mac,

Sorry to hear that you are confined to your home due to sickness, and sure hope you get back on your feet soon. We umpires in the Northern State league always felt that you had a fatherly interest in our welfare and always looked to you for advice, especially in Monday evening papers. We always appreciate seeing you in the stands checking up on us the day previous.

So hoping that you can be on the job again soon, I remain

Yours truly,
G. Vander Loop.

P. S. Dick, I'll bet this will have him back at the office in a hurry.

Oshkosh in Win Over Goodyears

All-Stars Can Tie for Lead With Triumph Saturday Night

Oshkosh—The Oshkosh All-Stars, playing their best basketball game of the season, defeated the Akron Goodyears, last year's pro league champions, 36 to 34, here Thursday night.

The victory put the Stars in position to gain a tie for first place with Indianapolis. To do this they must defeat Indianapolis at Oshkosh Saturday night.

Leroy Edwards, elongated center, paced the Stars' attack with five field goals and five free throws. Felix Preboski had four field goals and four free throws.

George Hesik, former Marquette university star, sparked a second half rally by the Goodyears with five field goals. The score was 16-16 at the half and in a late rally the Goodyears scored five points to give the fans a real scare.

The box score:

Kimberly A. A. Subs Defeat DePere Team

Kimberly—The Kimberly A.A. Reserves defeated Mellow Brook cagers of DePere, 45 to 40, at the clubhouse Tuesday evening. It was a big night for the Papermakers as every player scored one or more buckets. Hal Wentzel was high point man for the evening, making four buckets and four free throws.

The Papermakers were only one point ahead at the quarter as the score registered 8 to 7 in their favor. At the half the A's were leading, 18 to 14 and at the third period they were out in front to 32 to 23. Hertzfeldt of DePere made seven baskets and a free throw for fifteen points.

4 Gridders Leave Florida College

No Reason Is Given for Resignations of Students

Gainesville, Fla.—(AP)—Four University of Florida football players have resigned from school and there was doubt today whether some others would register for the second semester opening next week. A publicity department statement named the four as Frank Kocis, Paul Eller, Vincent Dahar and Pete Kozlosky.

Kocis, a senior, was captain of the team during the latter part of the 1938 season. Dahar, Kozlosky and Eller are sophomores. No reason was given for their resignations.

The Orlando Morning Sentinel published a signed story by Jim Mulcahy saying he and several other players had been told they would not receive financial aid for the second semester.

Jobs Investigated
Mulcahy said federal bureau of investigation agents recently had questioned members of the football squad who were given WPA jobs last summer.

Coach Josh Cody declared "all the boys on university athletic teams who receive financial assistance came here with a full understanding that they must meet requirements of the scholarship committee."

In Washington, Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the university, said some football players were employed by WPA last summer but declared he knew nothing of an investigation by federal agents.

Bettina and Fox to Meet in Garden for New York Ring Title

NEW YORK—(AP)—Melio Bettina and Tiger Jack Fox will make each other in Madison Square Garden tonight for New York's world light heavyweight championship, a somewhat tarnished jewel in fistiana's crown.

These hitherto unsung performers will fight for a title good only in this state. John Henry Lewis is regarded as the best light heavy in the world and legitimate boss of the division outside of New York. The state athletic commission relieved him of the title because he wouldn't defend it against Fox whom he once stopped in three rounds.

Mike Jacobs, scinting gold in the division's tangled affairs, has large plans for a bout between John Henry Lewis and Dave Clark of Detroit, with the victor meeting the winner of tonight's combat.

Expect Huge Crowds Will See Varied Events of Winter Sport Festival in City Over Weekend

HUNDREDS are expected to witness the varied events of the Winter Sports Festival to be staged at Jones and Erb parks this weekend. Highlighting the extensive program are ice skating races, and old timers race, ski jumping, fancy skating and hockey games.

Winners of the skating races will be eligible to compete in the state WPA races at Green Bay later this month while the winner of the dog derby will be eligible to enter the Fox River Valley meet at Oshkosh the second week in February.

The event is being sponsored by the recreation committee of the city council and WPA leaders.

A dance and style show will mark the opening of the festival at Rainbow Gardens this evening while races for juniors and intermediates will be staged Saturday afternoon at Jones park. Senior races, hockey games, ski jumping, fancy skating and exhibition races will be conducted Sunday afternoon at Jones park while the dog derby will be held at Erb park Sunday afternoon.

Gophers to Meet Ohio State Five In Feature Tilt

Iowa in Other Conference Mix

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Big Ten embarks on the last half of its 1939 basketball race tomorrow night with a first place showdown between Minnesota and Ohio State.

The game at Minneapolis, stronghold of the pacifiers, is one of two big league battles up for the weekend, although as many as seven Big Ten members will be in action following a siege of semester examinations. Northwestern and Iowa will meet at Evanston in the other conference mix.

Meantime, Illinois and Indiana cooperate tonight against non-conference foes, the former at Notre Dame and Indiana at Xavier. Illinois will be without its captain and guard, Tommy Nesbit, who was declared ineligible yesterday. The seventh member, Wisconsin, will oppose Michigan State at Madison tomorrow.

Seek Sixth Win
Should the Gophers, who tumbled Illinois from the top, also repulse the Buckeyes, it would be their sixth triumph in seven conference starts and would leave Purdue, Wisconsin, Indiana and Iowa still blocking their title path.

Ohio State will rely heavily upon Jimmy Hull, who scored 23 points against Chicago in his last appearance to take over the individual scoring lead, in its bid for a fifth victory against one setback.

Northwestern, in action again last night for the first time since its 32 to 31 Minnesota conquest, fell before Marquette, 36 to 26.

Foster Continues Search for Guards

Michigan State Saturday at Madison

MADISON—(AP)—Coach Harold E. Foster continued his search for guard replacements yesterday as his University of Wisconsin basketball team prepared for the opening game of the second half of the current cage season. Wisconsin plays Michigan State here in a non-conference game tomorrow night.

Harold Scott, Plattville, sophomore, showed acceptably again and appears to have one of the reserve back court posts cinched. His accurate eye from far out-court again drew Foster's praise.

Michigan State has a strong team this season, having defeated Butler, a team which had beaten the Badgers early in the season. Coach Ben Van Alstyne and his Spartans should prove a strong outfit to put the Badgers in condition for the opening Big Ten game of the second semester, against Purdue Monday night on the Boilermaker court.

Badger Crew Sets New Record for Outdoor Workout

Oarsmen Wet Their Shells For First Rowing of Year on Jan. 31

MADISON—University of Wisconsin oarsmen set a new record when they wet their shells for the first actual rowing of the year on Jan. 31. The Badgers last year indulged in their first outdoor workout Feb. 14, rowing on the Yaharra river which joins Lakes Mendota and Monona and is open all winter. Prior to that, Wisconsin crews, which practice on Lake Mendota during the regular rowing season, had always awaited the opening of the lake, which usually occurs between April 1 and April 15.

The squad which Coach Ralph Hunn put on the water Tuesday was made up of both varsity and freshman candidates as only those who had finished their mid-year examinations were allowed to report. Many still have one or two examinations to write. The first workouts were in the four-oared coxswain shells which are regularly used by Wisconsin's intramural crews. Hunn put two varsity squad men and two first year men in each boat. The course, though narrow is wide enough for real rowing and is a mile and a quarter long, with a turning basin at each end.

With five regulars left from last year's varsity crew which finished a good fifth at Fougheesville after leading the race for two miles and a promising crop of sophomore starters, Coach Hunn hopes for a better varsity eight this year. The present freshman squad also looks like the best first year group Wisconsin has had in a number of years.

University of Wisconsin athletes are resuming training, as fast as they write their last semester examinations, which will end for all this week. No regular practices are held in any sport during the examination period. It is still too early for any official reports as to how the Badgers fared in their tests but, in general, it is believed that few "key men" will be ineligible. The varsity basketball team will play its opening game of the second semester with Michigan State furnishing the opposition, Saturday night. The Badger wrestlers are the only ones resuming competition this week. The varsity grapplers meet Wheaton College here Saturday while the "B" team will tackle Beloit College here, Friday.

GRAPHIC GOLF

CORRECT IMPACT

By turning the left hip well aside, then bracing it for the impact stage, Bobby Jones above has insured a clear path for the hands to swing the clubhead through in the above illustration. Golfers who neglect this important fundamental find their hands blocked at the moment of hitting the ball and as a result their motive power forward is halted, resulting in a collapse of the swing. The illustration taken at the exact moment of impact finds the left arm still extended, the guiding club in the stroke which brings about the perfect alignment of clubhead and ball.

As can be seen the face of the club is at right angles to the ball and the line of light guaranteeing a hit straight ahead. Despite the power Jones has put into this stroke, reflected in his face, the clubhead has traveled smoothly and swiftly along the groove of the path. Jones' straight left arm has directed it in. There is no waste effort, the muscles of the mid-section, back and shoulders blending perfectly to give greatest speed at impact, a velocity which is made more efficient by perfect bodily balance.

Missouri's Johnny Munski May Show His Heels to Glenn

BY EDDIE BRIEZE
NEW YORK.—(AP) Those who thought to know say Pop Warner never will be an active coach again—Isn't physically up to it... Max Schmeling is the same old Max and, like Judge Landis, wears the same old hat... Smallest delegation in years turned out to greet main event... Most interesting story on the wires this week was the Boston war quiting Gil Doble, the well-known crepe hanging, "I am not worrying about 1939."

Mickey Cochrane is telling the boys he likes the auto business so well he doesn't care if he never gets back into baseball, but he can't kid us... The Cardinal chain will be one link shorter next year if they go through with plans to drop Sacramento... Don't bet on it, but Johnny Munski of Missouri may show Glenn Cunningham what a pair of heels looks like in the Wanamaker mile tomorrow night... This Munski can runski... And that's no punski...

John Henry Lewis plans a sea voyage, but the Evening Post says it will not be aboard the Queen Mary because the last time John rode that tub he appeared on the passenger list as "Joe (John Henry) Louis"... And did he feel hurt?

Bill Terry blows in today... Reds and White Sox reported interested in the San Diego franchise in the coast league... Since the football season ended four Xavier (Cincinnati) regulars have gone under the knife for appendicitis... Here they are offering bonuses of $2,000 and $2,500 for major league pitchers who win 20 games... Best old Pete Alexander could do was a $1,000 bonus for winning thirty... Ah yes, them good old days... Hawn!

If the Wire Works would have had a couple of Zimmermans on their team instead of just one the game with Elm Tree Bakers might have been different. Zimmermann collected 17 points on buckets and 5 free throws but his efforts weren't enough to match the powerful offensive of the winners. Lillie, Kriek and Burton played top games for the victors.

The smaller but speedier Merchants took complete control of their game with the "Y" boys and gained a 35 to 30 victory. After trailing, 9 to 8, at the end of the first period, the Merchants soon jumped into the lead and never were headed after that. Paulie and Powers each had 13 points for the winners.

Town Taxi lads were just too fast for the hapless Lutz Ice company and ran up a 41 to 16 victory. The Taxi cagers showed the best brand of offensive strength they have exhibited so far this season. Arnold, Glen Bowers and Kapp were the backbone for the winners while Lutz, Orv. LaMarr and Jack Bowers were outstanding for the losers.

Juniors Defeat Sophs In School Pin League

The Juniors took three games from the sophomores in the high school bowling league yesterday at the St. Joseph alleys. The Junior squad hit a total of 2,167 pins against 1,945 for the losers. B. Boyer hit a 463 to lead the Juniors and D. Strutz rolled a 423 to head the sophs. Next week the Juniors and seniors will tangle for the school championship.

Max Schmeling Is Confident He Can Defeat Joe Louis

Says Concentration Camp Rumors Are Ridiculous

BY NEW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK.—(AP) "Yah, I can beat Joe Louis; I know I can," said Max Schmeling. The reporters looked at each other and smiled but not so Schmeling could see them. He still has the immense pride of a fighting man and he does not joke about the ring.

He is back in the big town with the war drums throbbing in his veins and his ears attuned to the crackle of crisp American bills. He would like a fight, two fights. He wants to close his record with a victory.

At the end of his 20th trip across the Atlantic yesterday Max got the closest questioning of his career from the reporters. He sat in the lounge of the Normandie and for nearly an hour they poured questions on him.

Evades Inquiries
If he had evaded Joe Louis' punches as well as he slipped past inquiries about his relations with the nazi government he might be champion today. He would speak freely only of his trade.

"I do not come seeking fights. Perhaps I can get some. I think I can beat these heavyweights. You do not laugh when I say I can beat Louis. But I think you do inside. I wanted another fight after he beat me last June. I would like it very much now."

The black Uhlan hasn't changed much. There is a little grey in his coarse black hair. His face is more heavily lined than before. But he carries himself erect, 196 pounds, a fine figure of a man.

"One reason I have come back is to see my friends here. I have relatives, too—a brother in New Jersey. I can get some fights I will stay longer. My plans now are for only 14 days in this country."

"These rumors about my being in a concentration camp are silly. I am not what you say. I am in bad with the government. Chancellor Hitler sent me a telegram after the Louis fight. Those things are not to be thought of. Why ask me such questions?"

CATHERINE NOOYEN'S 225 game and Gladys Steffenhagen's 540 series were the sparkling scores of the Women's City bowling league last night at Arcade alleys.

Miss Nooyen finished with a 529 series and Pearl Hornke smashed 175 and 199 for a 507 as State Restaurant won two from Adler-Brau.

For the losers, H. Iverson rolled 189 and 483 and M. Butler 178.

Mrs. Steffenhagen reached her high series on games of 163, 190, and 187, Mae Tornow topped a 220, and Alma Mundring 194 as Cary Oil Burners swept a match with Belling Drugs and wrote down the top team total, 2,475. For the losers, Veronica Miller bowled 176 and 490 and Adeline Van Caster 176.

Dairy Wins Two
Frieda Hoffman rolled 189 and 511, Leone Vogel 195, and E. Hager and M. Lueckel each 189 games as Schaefer Dairy won two from Automotive Supply, the team that cracked the best game score of 886.

For the Automotive squad, Lillian Klebenow rolled 203 and 535, M. Schinke 177, Gertrude Ashman 206, E. Hammen 177, and E. Lucassen 175.

L. Geske bowled 191 and 529, M. Barla 188, and A. Kolosso 188 and 176 as Kolosso's won all three from Oak's Candles, paced by D. Wentworth who had 193 and 486 and V. Lundstrom who hit 175.

J. Lense gained 177, 182, and 514, V. Bauman 176, and Laura Lueders 189 as Jess Arcade took three from Heinies Taverns. For the losers, D. Muraski hit 194 and 518.

Maxine Johnson turned in 199, 181, and 538 and S. De Wall 176 as Polka Dots won two from Metropolitan, led by F. Gehring who rapped 198, 177, and 515 and D. Clark who hit 190.

Kimberly Graders Troupe Seymour

Holy Name Reserve Strength Is Important Factor in Win

Kimberly—Holy Name grade school cagers won over Seymour grade school, 25 to 12 at the clubhouse Wednesday afternoon. Seymour put on a fine exhibition of ball handling and passing and gave Kimberly a real battle for three periods. Reserve strength of the Holy Name team told the final score.

The Papermakers were out in front at the half, 9 to 8. Fieweger played a good passing game in addition to scoring a bucket and a free throw. Friday afternoon the Holy Namers will play St. John of Monasha on the home floor while on Sunday the Papermakers travel to DePere for a double header with St. Joseph's and St. Francis teams.

Patty Berg's Father Takes Passing Interest in Her Golf

BY GAYLE TALBOT
LAMI, Fla.—(AP) My wife, who was winning along out at the Miami Biltmore course, watching Patty Berg mow down another opponent, when I ran into Patty's father, Herman, who also was observing his daughter's play in an abstract way.

He is a little fellow, but his grip nearly took my fingers out by the roots. He shakes hands like his young daughter plays golf—for 22 keeps. He is in the grain business even in Minneapolis and he vastly prefers big league baseball to golf, even if his daughter is the national champion in the latter sport.

Patty had played three holes when I caught up, but Herman didn't know how she stood with her rival. As we trudged along behind the gallery following Patty he

John Munski Gets His First Crack At Boyhood Hero

Glenn Cunningham Meets Stiff Test in Wanamaker Mile

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN
COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP) Lone-some John Munski who gets his first crack at his boyhood hero, Glenn Cunningham, in the Wanamaker mile Saturday developed his speed by beating his 12 sisters and brothers to the dinner table.

Although he won, it has taken this son of Polish immigrants 21 years to pack 140 pounds on his 5 foot, 11 inch frame. But it took him only 13 months as a University of Missouri student to erase four of the five records the mobile Kansas left him as targets in the Big Ten conference.

First Meeting
Saturday's race in New York is their first meeting and lonesome John—his always so far out in front he appears friendless—thinks too much of his hero to chase him. He'd like to be waiting for him at the finish line.

It was Cunningham's praise that brought Munski an invitation to compete in the games.

But idol or not, Cunningham will be in for a footrace Saturday. Munski considers heroes in the same light as Joe Louis treats friends. The former Montana schoolboy has but one idea to get out in front in the shortest possible time and stay there.

Munski galloped the fastest mile ever credited to a college sophomore, 4:10.1 in the distance medley relay at the 1938 Drake relays.

Quiz Question Seems Easy to Most Players

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The last question of the examination seems to have been too easy for thousands of players. The correct line of play involved nothing more than a simple finesse, but, to the intense surprise, many examinees objected to my answer on the ground that a squeeze play would offer a greater chance of success. The question was:

Both sides vulnerable. You are West, declarer at a four spade contract in rubber bridge. (Opponents made no bids.) Your hand and dummy are:

Declarer (West)	Dummy (East)
♠ A Q J 10 6 5	♠ K
♥ 7	♥ A Q 5 4 2
♦ A K 6	♦ 7 5 2
♣ J 6 4	♣ 10 8 3

North opens a club and the defenders collect three club tricks. South then leads a diamond. You win. What is your next play, and your plan?

In my answer I pointed out: "The only chance for victory (except for a very remote squeeze) appears to be a successful heart finesse, which will permit the discard of West's losing diamond on the heart ace." I'm afraid that the players who insisted on going after a squeeze in this hand were just a wee bit Smart Alec. They probably could not credit me with having devised a hand in which so simple a play would be the official answer. They were wrong! The squeeze which will "very remote" is not only that but, even if it exists, cannot be executed with assurance. I did not think it necessary to go into detail before, but now I point out that the only possibility of a squeeze is for South to hold five or six diamonds and the heart king. (If North holds the heart king, a squeeze is silly, because a simple finesse produces the same result.)

Now let us concede that South's holding is precisely as outlined. If South knows what he is doing he will discard without squirming or hesitation until, when the final position is reached in which declarer holds the diamond six and the heart seven while dummy holds the ace-queen of hearts, South actually will have the high diamond and the black king of hearts, but how will declarer KNOW that South's remaining heart is the king? The answer is that he cannot know such a thing. Hence, even though he has South squeezed at this point, he will be unable to take advantage of the fact, except by peeping into South's hand. Thus, not only is the possibility of the squeeze remote, but the execution of it is virtually a double-dummy play. This was one time, at least, when I had anticipated certain answers and was quite ready for them!

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 spade	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Few bids can be more costly than overcalls which influence bad opening leads. East's spade overcall in this case was an example. It induced West to lead his fourth best spade and when this was allowed to ride to the queen, the defenders could fold their tents and fade away. As a matter of fact, declarer actually succeeded in making an overtrick due to East's subsequent misplay. The spade queen holding the first trick, declarer led his remaining spade to the ace and returned a heart from dummy. East ducked and the king held. The heart queen drove out the ace, and East led a third spade. Declarer ruffed and picked up West's remaining trump, discarding a diamond from dummy. He then led a club to the king and returned a low club toward the jack. East hopped up with the queen and made the horrible return of his fourth spade. It should have been apparent to East that it was vital to knock out dummy's diamond ace, but apparently he was blind to this fact. Declarer ruffed the spade return and cashed the club jack, then entered dummy with the diamond ace and discarded his losing diamond on dummy's club ace. If East had left his partner to his own selection of a lead it is very likely that West would have opened a diamond, and reasonably good defense would have defeated the contract.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

Valentine Luncheon

If any excuse is needed for giving a party we certainly have several in February, for this shortest of months has more days to celebrate than any other month in the calendar. St. Valentine's day, the most popular of all, with its hearts, cupids and tradition of love is an inspiration for a gay and frivolous affair. Whatever the occasion, to you and your guests, the food is the important thing. Simple foods, and plenty of them make the greatest hit at any party.

This luncheon menu carries out a pink color scheme with foods that can be prepared in advance.

Menu

Tomato Consomme
Stuffed Celery
Olive Pimiento Cheese Salad
Ham Rolls
Raspberry Sherbet
Valentine Cakes
Coffee

4 cups tomato juice
2 cups chicken broth or chicken stock
1 teaspoon chopped chives
1 stalk celery
2 whole cloves
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 clove garlic
1 beaten egg white
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Simmer tomato juice, chicken stock, chives, onion, celery and seasonings 45 minutes. Add egg white and lemon juice, stir well and strain. Serve hot with cheese wafers. Serves 6 to 8.

Pimiento Cheese Salad

1 package lemon jello
1 1/2 cups hot water
1 1/2 teaspoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon paprika
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup grated American cheese
1-3 cup pimientos
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill. Add milk and paprika to mayonnaise and beat with rotary egg beater to blend. When jello is slightly thickened, beat in mayonnaise mixture. Then fold in cheese and pimiento. Turn into a heart shaped mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with crisp water cress. Serves 6 to 8.

Valentine Cakes

1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons flavoring
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Beat eggs until very light with rotary egg beater. Beat in salt, sugar and flavoring. Heat milk with butter until boiling hot and then beat into egg mixture. Sift flour once before measuring. Beat in the flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Pour very quickly into a greased and floured pan 9 by 14 inches, or two 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake at once in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. 25 to 30 minutes. When cake has cooled, cut it into hearts using heart shaped cutter. Ice with butter icing. Around the edge of some of the cakes place border of tiny red candy hearts. Place a larger red candy heart in the center of each of the other cakes. Makes 18 to 20 small cakes.

Because of an error when this recipe was printed on Jan. 17, it is being repeated today.

PRUNE BREAD

1 tablespoon shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup prune juice
2 cups graham flour
1 cup white flour
1 cup sour milk
6 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked chopped prunes
1 cup chopped nuts
Cream shortening and sugar together. Add beaten egg and when well mixed add prune juice and sour milk. Add graham flour and mix well. Sift white flour with baking powder, soda and salt and add with prunes and nuts. Beat thoroughly and pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake one hour in a slow oven 325 degrees F. Makes 1 loaf.

Honey mixed with grapefruit and seeded white cherries makes a refreshing appetizer.

Power of Women's Tears Is Discussed by Dorothy Dix

BY DOROTHY DIX

Probably no other gift that heaven can bestow upon a girl is so valuable as the ability to weep without her nose getting red. It is an asset upon which she can always depend in need. For if given eyes that can overflow in crystal drops that do not even become wells of grief that do not wash the make-up off of their owner's cheeks, a woman can get away with murder, as is amply proven by the number of ladies who float safely past the electric chair on their tears.

Why tears have this strange and mysterious power upon us, we do not know. For, in reality, we all have a contempt for whiners and complainers. Also, we know perfectly well that nine times out of ten tears are a racket of which we are being made the victim, yet when we see a woman weeping into her handkerchief we don't say: "Moron! Coward! Weakling! Don't be a cry-baby. Act your age. Get up and do something about whatever ails you."

On the contrary, we "poor darling" her and pity her, and let her sob on our shoulders until we have got rheumatism in them and she has got out of us whatever she wants. Drying a widow's tears is the most costly and hazardous undertaking in which any man ever engages, as many a gay and carefree bachelor has discovered. What there is in a woman's tears that paralyzes our judgment and turns our spinal columns into mush, science has not been able to determine, but it is there all right. And it enables any little two-by-four woman, with the brain of a canary bird, who is a free weeper to outwit the most astute man, to change a bemedaled war hero into a trembling coward, to cause honest men to become thieves and strong men to work themselves to death by trying to stop the flood she poured over them.

We see this happen every day. We know plenty of men who are married to women whom they have never loved and never had the slightest intention of marrying until Ethel or Sally or Maud turned the hydraulic pressure on them and landed them at the altar before they knew it. They could have withstood any other sort of force, but when a pretty little thing clung to them and cried for them, they didn't have the heart to refuse her.

And look at the henpecked we know, the poor, down-trodden creatures who say "our" pants and dare not call their sons their own! Are they dominated by Amazons who crack the whip over them and make them jump through the hoop at their command? Rarely. The lady dictators of the home seldom rule with an iron rod. They do with their tears. They use the water cure on their husbands whenever they show any signs of rebellion.

A man can fight with a wife who fights back. He can argue with one who is open to reason. But he is helpless before one who just sits down and opens the flood gates until she drowns out his last ounce of resistance and makes the home such a damp, dismal, uninhabitable place that he gives in to get out of it.

But the worst weepers, the most conscienceless ones and the ones who do the most harm are the mothers who rule their children through the tyranny of tears. Mother doesn't want Sally to marry the fine young man she is engaged to, and she cries and cries and cries until she forces Sally to give up her lover and settle down into a dreary spinsterhood. Mother doesn't want John to leave the old farm, or little village, to go where fortune calls him, so she shuts the door of opportunity in his face by bursting into tears every time he says anything about leaving her.

Many mothers enslave their children to them by their ability to sob every time their children make an effort to get out from under their thumbs and have a little life of their own. If the youngsters want to step out, if they want to have friends, they have to wade through mother's tears to do so, and it isn't worth the price. They give in and drown in salt water. Of course, tears are always a coward's weapon, but when a woman uses them she is pretty sure to win the fight.

FOR JUNIORS

BY ANNE ADAMS

The latest style-whims for juniors are summed up oh-so-sweetly in this new Anne Adams frock—with yoke, girdle-waist and flared skirt! Can't you just picture your daughter wearing it this Spring? Ask her—if she's old enough—if she wouldn't like to stitch it up for herself. The making is easy—simplified by a step-by-step Sewing Instructor. See how new-looking the bolero is when in a flowered fabric. Or you might have the frock in print, the bolero in monotone crepe, matching or contrasting. Another idea—not shown—is to have dainty dress yoke, cap sleeves and bolero in an accent shade that flatters the face!

Pattern 4046 is available in girls' and junior sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 10, dress, takes 2 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and bolero, 1 yard contrast.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Sometimes adults torture their children in a psychological manner by thoughtless actions, and thereby inflict permanent scars upon their personalities. Janet has suffered such an injury and may show its effects all of her life.

CASE M-141: Janet D., aged 7, is the niece of a physician friend of mine.

"I promised my wife I would teach Janet to swim," this doctor explained. He is an accomplished swimmer himself.

"But the child absolutely refused to go where the water was over her knees. I coaxed her, and told her she could not swim in shallow water, but I couldn't persuade her differently.

"Finally, I threatened her. Still she refused. So I picked her up and tossed her out in the deep end of the pool.

"She spluttered and yelled, but she learned to swim. Now my wife his idea, for he believes that every child ought to be well equipped to meet the hazards of life. Most of us would agree with the wisdom of this view.

How To Teach Children To Swim

Being a dominant type of man who doesn't believe in vacillating tactics, he grew irritated at her timidity. It would have been far wiser if his wife had taken over the task of teaching Janet to swim.

As a rule, men do not have the patience which women possess, so they are less likely to be as good teachers of young children. Men are more blunt and tactless.

They are more inclined to employ strong arm methods. But these produce fear in children. And when we are emotionally unstrung, it is difficult for us to make good progress at learning complicated habits.

The first requisite in teaching children to swim, is to produce liking for the water. I was able to overcome my youngsters' normal fear of a ducking, by encouraging them to hold their breath and see how long they could keep their faces under the surface.

At the start, they averaged only 12 to 15 seconds for their first cued efforts. Their hearts pounded so rapidly they demanded frequent breaths.

Why We Like Things

On subsequent attempts they were able to reach 30 seconds. Then I explained Houdini's secret, which I described in this column a few weeks ago.

By trying to follow this plan, they forgot their fear of the water. Within a quarter of an hour they had reached 70 seconds. Moreover, they were relaxing in the water, instead of remaining tense.

We had made a game of this modified diving, and their vanity was being inflated. Whenever our pride is inflated with respect to a given object or situation, we usually like that object or situation. This basic law in psychology greatly helped in their learning to swim.

Then I encouraged them to hold their breath and fall into the water, floating until they needed another breath. It wasn't long until they were swimming, and they don't have that tense fear common to many swimmers.

High School Students Should Be Given More Consideration

BY ANGELO PATRI

High school boys and girls, and those of the first college years, are people in their own right, and not to be thought of in terms of infancy. The most difficult adjustment parents have to make is concerned with this bold fact. The children have grown up while their parents were not looking; consequently they continue to think of them and to manage them as they did when they were helpless infants.

"Mother, where is my old green sweater? Do you know? I had it in the bottom drawer, but I can't seem to find it."

"O, that? You didn't need that old sweater. I gave it to your cousin. Just the thing for him to play after school."

"But mother, why didn't you ask me? I wanted it for that very reason. I needed it for scrub practice. I wish you would let me have it."

Sister is seventeen. She has a boy friend with whom she likes to go out occasionally. She has planned to go with him to the movies on Friday afternoon, a privilege that has been granted by her parents, and the boy's "Where are you going, Sister?"

"To the movies. With John."

"You can't go this afternoon. I promised Mrs. Cary that you would stay in with little Peter while she went down to see her mother this afternoon. She hasn't had a chance to get out this week. I knew you wouldn't mind helping her."

"Of course not, but mother, this is Friday afternoon, and you know I always go somewhere that afternoon because it is the only time I can go. John will feel that I stood him up, and I'm so disappointed."

"I forgot. You'll have lots of Fridays. It won't hurt you for once to think of somebody else."

Perhaps Sister is thinking that it wouldn't have hurt mother to have taken a little thought about her before giving away her only free afternoon. But she often happens in ways not so apparent always, but just as hard for the young people to bear, gracefully.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

These exercises correct shoulder unloveliness.

A woman who has devoted much of her life in study of the needs of the body, Mrs. Marguerite Agniet, believes strongly that the right kind of exercise will repay in physical beauty the effort expended, and also encourage excellent health.

Miss Agniet laments specifically occupations which cramp the chest and depress the chestbone as well as the ribs—such as typists, office workers and others who spend their days in sedentary work or in stooping positions.

"Shoulders," she claims, "are good guides to personality. Well-set shoulders, devoid of rigidity, usually mark a person of initiative. Hunched shoulders frequently mark the timid, nervous type. Shoulders thrown too far back generally bespeak of the dictator or one who feels the need for keeping up a front, as is so often revealed by the army officer, the drum major, or the fat dowager conscious of her social position who holds her shoulders back by an effort of will. Sloping shoulders always indicate a winsome, clinging nature, and the overburdened or discouraged person's shoulders invariably droop forward."

"Shoulders are meant to be free," she continues, "just as a bird's wings are meant to spread and fly. They are only attached to the skeleton in front, where the collarbones join the breastbone. Elsewhere they are held in position by muscle alone. So their rigidity is not a matter of consideration at that score alone. And remember, they feel grown up after childhood is past. The relationship between children and parents is based on mutual understanding. The name of that relationship is friendship. Real friendship can, and often does, exist between parents and their adolescent children, and when it does, the relationship is ideal. The way to establish it is to consider the children as people. Ask them before making decisions for them. That is their due."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a 4-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

DEBUTANTE

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man is invited to a debutante party and he knows the girl slightly, what acknowledgment does he make of her party when he can't go? The invitation asked for no answer.

Answer: He dances with her when he meets her out. Otherwise no real obligation devolves upon him.

"Tails" on Sunday

Dear Mrs. Post: Are "tails" and really formal evening dresses worn on a Sunday evening anywhere? That is, in the most formal places where these clothes are put on every other evening in the week by some of the people, is it proper to wear them on a Sunday? Some of my friends, for that formal clothes are out of place on a Sunday, I can't understand why.

Answer: "Tails" are rarely, if ever, worn on Sunday night. The reason for this is that Sunday is not a day on which formal entertaining should be done.

An Unmarried Hostess

Dear Mrs. Post: When an unmarried woman entertains six married couples at a dinner, and on this one occasion is not going to invite an extra man to make an even number of men and women, will you explain why she asks to sit opposite her. Or do you suggest that she leave the place opposite empty so the seating will come out evenly?

Answer: Never leave an empty place except when less than four are at table and the table is formally set with four places. The question of whether she should seat a woman next to herself or seat two other women together depends somewhat of course upon the people present. But since it is of least compliment to the women who are seated side by side, it is best under most circumstances that the hostess seat the one she knows best next to herself.

Less Rule Than Feeling Involved

Dear Mrs. Post: When a person dies, should flowers be sent addressed to the family or to the deceased?

Answer: As a matter of fact,

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

by Angela Lorden

The Characters

Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.
Allan Collings, the man she loves.
David Norris, her fiancé.

Chapter 24
An Awful Idiot

Strangely enough, it was Elsie Grant who gave Noel some sense of comfort in the ensuing hectic days. Without realizing it, too, she advanced David's cause with Noel.

On impulse, Noel called Denise's shop and invited Elsie to have dinner with her. Elsie was a different person than the dispirited young woman who had joined the Christmas party in Claiborne. She was blossoming—it was the new job. She was more smartly dressed, too.

"Security is a wonderful thing for a woman, isn't it?" Noel commented as they sat in her living-room.

"I've you to thank for it all. I don't know how I'll ever repay you." Elsie's eyes were shining.

"You don't know what it is to be jobless—to wonder where your next week's rent is coming from," Elsie continued.

"Oh, don't!" Noel was remembering the lean seasons with no calls from producers bolstering her courage. She found herself telling some of this to Elsie, of her own unhappy period at the Weymouth Club. "Are you still there?" she asked Elsie.

"Yes, I could afford something better now, but I'm afraid not to save every dollar I can. I'll stay on a while longer until I'm sure my place is permanent with Madam Denise."

Noel could understand that, too. "Promise me one thing, Elsie—if you're ever in any difficulties, will you let me know at once? I'll have more than I need for myself."

She was thinking of David and his wealth. "I'm marrying David Norris in a few weeks." There, she'd said it with finality. "We'll be away for most of the summer."

There are few situations which have less definite rules, probably because so much personal feeling is involved. Many people address the flowers to the deceased; others address the flowers to the nearest of kin; others send them to whichever member of the family they know best. There are still others who send their flowers to the John Doe Funeral. Of the four ways, I think this last is more usual, but the other three are all permissible.

A coat of clear varnish applied to the cellophane in your kitchen will make it last longer and you will find it will clean more easily.

ALPHABET

Being personal is the distinctive thing with linens and personal accessories today. These alphabets, mainly in lazy-daisy stitch are most effective in black or green and a color or in two shades of a color. You'll want to put them on everything. They're so quickly embroidered even that youngsters of twelve would enjoy doing them.

Pattern 1947 contains a transfer patch of two 2 1/2 inch and two 1 1/2 inch alphabets; directions for placing initials; illustrations of patches. The ancient Greeks obtained most of their "sugar" from honey which they found in beehives. The bees got the honey-making juice from flowers.

Many kinds of plants and trees product juice or sap which can be treated and turned into sugar of one kind or another. Sugar cane has juice which is best for this purpose, though the sugar beet has become a close rival in modern times.

Movieland Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—I received a sizzling phone call this morning from a very indignant clubwoman. She, it seems, is spokeswoman for 499 other club ladies, all of whom are just as indignant as she is. The reason for their ire is this: Maureen O'Sullivan, whose April engagement with the stork has been publicized to the ends of the earth, is currently, in spite of that engagement, gallivanting before the cameras for a new Tarzan picture. The ladies think it's darned poor taste. They're also disgusted by Hollywood's habit of making public capital of all expected nuptials, months before they happen. Personally, I wouldn't be surprised to learn that a few million other women, having been trained to regard the birth of a baby as something sacred, private and peculiarly personal, share these convictions.

I pride myself on being unconventional (it would be impossible to live in this town otherwise) but I must confess a shock when an actress who has announced months in advance that she's going to have a baby blithely continues work before the cameras. Incidentally, I'm flabbergasted when a star glibly remarks, as did one the other day, that she's "not going to have a baby after all" and that it's just as well because she's "getting more publicity by not having one."

It's really too bad all our stars and press agents couldn't have listened in on that phone call this morning. They would have gleaned two ideas: (1), that expectant mothers should stay out of the limelight; (2), that babies should be dressed in swaddling clothes rather than in printer's ink.

Cuff Notes: Don't be too surprised if M-G-M decides to shelve that half-finished Hedy Lamarr-Spencer Tracy picture permanently instead of temporarily—something seems to be wrong but none of the insiders are telling. . . . It will be the Three Kellys from now on—Seven-year-old Karole and five-year-old Jack, Jr., are joining big-sister Nancy in pictures. . . . Add "Red Ryder" to your list of comic strip heroes being transferred to the screen—first picture in the series will be started as soon as casting is complete. . . . That Kane Richmond baby ought to be a luck-child—she weighed seven pounds and eleven ounces. . . . Blue pencil those unrumors of a rift 'twixt the John Carradines—he's living in his Hollywood studio in the effort to sculpt enough busts for a promised one-man art exhibit. . . . Since that final round with his wife, Chester Morris is doing a high cut—even the studio doesn't know his address. . . . The Doug Corrigan picture, "The Flying Irishman" will be released—you guessed it—on St. Patrick's Day. . . . Looks like a come back for flame-tressed Peggy Shannon—already set for a leading role at R-K-O, she's testing for the Belle Watling part in "Gone With the Wind." . . . That Joan Fontaine-Conrad Nagel romance is sub-zero—her current heart is John Howard. . . . It's time out by doctors' orders for Jack Holt—the flu bugs have got him. . . . Draw a line through reports that Andrea Leeds has replaced Charlie McCarthy on Edgar Bergen's knee—"ain't" so. . . . It will be a South American honnymoon for Clark Gable and Carole Lombard—but soon. . . .

You hear a great deal about Hollywood's passion for authenticity in detail and little about its skill in creating illusions. I saw a perfect demonstration of that skill today on the "Rose of Washington Square" set. Tyrone Power, Al Jolson and Alice Faye were at the piano, singing "Ja-da." "Japanese Sandman" and other hit songs popular at the close of the War. Accompanying them, was a chorus of young men dressed in what appeared to be the style of that period. But it was only an optical illusion. Their suits, shirts, and shoes were as modern as anachronism—only their high, detachable collars and huge-knotted neckties were authentic. By learning that the audience is satisfied with that illusion, Twentieth Century saves about $25,000 in costuming bills.

Boos and Bouquets: Best picture of the week is "Congo Din," which has a plus quantity everything—except an adequate story, which you'll never miss. . . . A laurel wreath to Cary Grant for a swell comedy performance in the same picture—and a special bouquet to Vic McLaglen for paying admission fees for 100 members of the Boys' Club he sponsors. . . . Most tempting title of the month: "Heaven With a Barbed Wire Fence"—readying for production at Twentieth Century-Fox. . . . A chilling boo to Master Mickey Rooney for forgetting that little boys should not make pests of themselves in night clubs. . . .

Charles Ruggles, who sells blue-blooded pooches as a sideline, tells about a certain Scotch actor who's trying to buy a

Make Plans for Annual Concert Weyauwega School Band To Present Program In March

Weyauwega — The annual school band concert will be given the first week in March. Among selections to be played are two novelties, "Blind Man's Bluff" and "The Three Bears." Valerius Herzfeldt will read the story and the band will furnish the sound effect.

The coming tournament also will bring solo and ensemble work to the fore. Several have passed their tests, and are ready for their five accompanists. Mrs. George Clason, Mrs. Carleton Check, Lillian Brandenberg and Betty and Ross Bauer.

Gerhardt Wangerine now plays first trombone and John Redemann has moved up to the solo position. Presentation of "Aunt Tillie Goes to Town" has been postponed indefinitely because of the scarlet fever epidemic.

The schedule for the intramural basketball games has been posted. The schedule began Jan. 24 and will end March 8. There are five teams competing. Laverne Chich is captain of "Chich's Chickadees." The faculty team was dubbed the "Alley Rats," and the captain is Ronald Murry. "Chich's Rangers" have Russell Chich for a captain and Ralph Gehrke is captain of the team called "Turk's Speedsters." The eighth grade team, known as the "Pinheads," has Willard Frost as its captain.

The teams leading at present are "Chich's Chickadees" and the "Alley Rats."

At the meeting of the Equity Co-operative Livestock association in Milwaukee last week Ed Mattheski of Pulaski was elected president, succeeding H. W. Glocke of Weyauwega. Mr. Glocke is among the directors.

One hundred new books have been purchased and added to the school library.

Mrs. Ernestine Miller is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hannah Schoenick.

J. N. Henriott of Manitowoc, assistant chemist at the condensary, has moved his family here. They are now occupying the E. H. Whitney residence recently vacated by the A. S. Peterson family.

Little Alice Long has been taken to St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton for treatment.

Mrs. Emil Stalberg also has been taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Eighteen hundred farmers and 24 corporations in Bell County, Kentucky, launched a 1939 tree-planting program, to be continued until 1950, 1000 acres in the county are reforested.

Prayer Day Service at Clintonville Church

Clintonville — A prayer day will be given at 7:30 Sunday evening at Salem Evangelical church under the sponsorship of the Young People's Missionary Circle. The program has been prepared under the direction of the president, Mrs. Lloyd Pernot. The entire congregation and friends are invited to attend the service. In addition to the scripture lesson and hymns, there will be a playlet by Theda Salzman.

Kenneth Jorgenson and Delmar Be-low; a trombone solo by Wesley Thies; and a review of the study book on India by Miss Esther Regli. Salem Evangelical Ladies Aid society was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Leo Polzin at her home on Anne street. A membership campaign is now being conducted by the members. Mrs. Bernard Oneska and Miss Anna Kiehoefer were admitted to membership at this meeting.

Methodist Ladies Guild met at the church parlors Thursday afternoon and made plans to entertain the choir and the Sunday school teachers on Thursday evening, Feb. 9. The program included two organ selections by Mrs. Donald Olen and a book review of "Triumph Over Pain" by Mrs. Irving Auld. The book deals with the story of anasthesia and was written by an Australian chemist, Rene F. Miller. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Roy Martin and Mrs. Walter Rohm.

The Good Will Circle of the Methodist Ladies Aid society will conduct a food sale Saturday afternoon at the Heuer furniture store.

County Is Kept Free of Gambling, Sheriff States

Slot Machines Banned; No Major Vice Evident, Neubauer Says

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—In the wake of announcement of plans for special investigations throughout the Fox river valley by laymen and civic as well as religious organizations in an effort to weed out vice, Sheriff Paul Neubauer, Winnebago county sheriff, today stated that there is no major vice or gambling evident in this county.

"For some time now," Neubauer stated, "this county has had a ban on slot machines, pinball machines and other gambling devices. We have not had much trouble keeping the county free of these illegal devices. The very instant we learn of the presence of such a machine or similar scheme, our department pays a visit to the place where it is kept and the device is confiscated and arrested usually follows."

Proof of this was displayed last week when the sheriff's department raided a tavern in the northern part of the county and found a slot machine.

Under smashing blows of a huge sledge hammer, the instrument was soon demolished; the coins were saved and deposited in the county treasury. The proprietor was arrested and paid a heavy fine in municipal court.

Champion Skater Gives Exhibition At Rink in Menasha

Menasha—Peter C. Dube, 60-year-old former world champion speed skater from Escanaba, Mich., Thursday evening visited with Oshkosh, according to Mr. Dube. The course is intended to prepare people to be instructors in first aid.

Mr. Dube was impressed by the interest of Menasha citizens in the activities of the Red Cross. He declared that the local chapter not only was outstanding for the increased membership and donations this year but also for the many activities which are being conducted.

While he was here, Mr. Dube skated a 12-lap exhibition race against Eddie Zelinski, one of Menasha's finest skaters, at the Senior rink. Mr. Dube, who has trained some of the world's greatest racers, declared that Zelinski will become a top-notch skater with proper training and experience.

If train connections from La-Crosse make it possible, Mr. Dube will return here this weekend and on Sunday afternoon will race against any three Fox valley speed skaters at the Jones park rink in Appleton.

Large Attendance Is Expected at County Conservation Dinner

Neenah—A large attendance is expected at the county conservation dinner program at St. Mary's auditorium, Oshkosh, Tuesday evening. Representatives from Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Fond du Lac, Berlin, Ripon and Oshkosh are expected. About 400 is the anticipated attendance mark.

The following conservation groups are cooperating in staging the program: Twin City Rod and Gun club, Neenah High school Conservation club, Winneconne-Poygan Conservation club, Winchester-Larsen Rod and Gun club, Omro Rod and Gun club, Universal Forestry Conservation club, Winnebago County Conservation club, Oshkosh High school Conservation club and WinnebagoLand, Inc. The Oshkosh Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions will be the hosts.

Speakers on the program will be H. W. McKenzie, state conservation director, and Daniel Janzen, Milwaukee, regional director for the United States biological survey.

Neenah Girl to Give Exhibition of Fancy Skating at Carnival

Neenah—An exhibition of fancy skating will be given by Miss Virginia Morrison, 15, 207 E. Doty avenue, a Neenah High school girl, as a feature of the High school's Intramural ice carnival Saturday afternoon on Lake Winnebago.

Miss Morrison is an accomplished skater, having won third place in the 220-yard event in the junior girls' class at the national championships last year at Oconomowoc. She also has competed in fancy skating events at the national meets.

The ice carnival is open to high school boys and girls, and the winners in the boys' event will represent the high school in the ice carnival at Sturgeon Bay the following Saturday.

Marvin Olson, hockey coach, is in charge, and he will be assisted by members of the student council. Students will judge the events and teachers will act as starters.

Confer on Work of Red Cross Chapter

District Representative Meets With Menasha Committees

Menasha—E. A. Spees, district representative of the American Red Cross, was in Menasha yesterday and today to discuss the work and plans for the chapter with members of the various local committees.

At a meeting at the Menasha library Thursday afternoon, Mr. Spees announced that a water safety course will be conducted by W. A. Hausknecht in the Menasha High school pool. The course will be conducted on Tuesdays and Thursdays from Feb. 14 to March 4.

A first aid course will be given in Appleton on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from Feb. 13 to March 4, according to Mr. Spees. The course is intended to prepare people to be instructors in first aid.

Mr. Spees was impressed by the interest of Menasha citizens in the activities of the Red Cross. He declared that the local chapter not only was outstanding for the increased membership and donations this year but also for the many activities which are being conducted.

Some Veterans Have Failed to Apply for Bonus, Miller Says

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—William H. Miller, Winnebago county veterans service officer, today announced that there are still some veterans in Winnebago county who have not filed applications for their soldier's bonus which was made available two years ago.

Although the deadline for filing applications for the bonus has been set at January 2, 1940, Miller stated that veterans wishing to receive the compensation must file soon in order to receive their share as promptly as possible.

The service officer also reminded veterans of the county as well as their relatives that claims for burial expenses of departed veterans must be filed in his office within one year from the date of death. Failure to apply for the benefit in that time means a forfeit of the $100 burial allowance from the veterans administration.

Boy Scouts Play Ski Games at Golf Course

Menasha—Members of boy scout troop No. 14, sponsored by the First Congregational church, went on a ski hike to Butte des Morts golf course Thursday afternoon. The scouts played games on their skis.

Those who went on the trip included Robert Anderson, James Anderson, Richard Anderson, David Frosser, William Gear, Duane Gear, Norman Michie, Waldo Friedland and Buddy Geibel.

Members of the car committee were Arthur Peterson, Hugo Geibel and Emmett Bellow, scoutmaster of the troop. A luncheon was served. Members of the luncheon committee were William Gear, J. D. Michie and Morris Terrio.

Pegler Says Most Americans Are Looking for Way to Peace

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—Most Americans today are groping for some safe and reasonably decent way to keep out of any way that may break in Europe but finding only reasons why it couldn't be done. It isn't that this nation has any illusions about the nobility of Britain and France, whose many perfidies in many parts of the world have been freely discussed, or that Americans owe a duty to prevent Italy from stealing country stolen by France and administered by her with the peculiar French gift for corruption in government plus the French selfishness. And certainly nobody regards England as the mother country of the United States or feels any affection for the unlovable English people or obligation to help them defend their holdings and their lives.

The grievances and the fears which chill the heart are our own, and the whole nation would welcome any sign that Hitler and Germany, the aggressors, were willing to call it off, reduce armament, let us alone and live in peace. Should war come this country cannot permit Germany or Italy to lick Canada and then impose the sort of peace which the kaiser's Germany intended to inflict had he won the Great war and which the allies instead imposed on Germany and Austria. Germany and Italy would be dangerous neighbors in Bermuda and the West Indies, and with Britain and France out of the way and, perhaps, even turned against us in resentment, the United States would be a set-up. It is one thing to read that the German press ridicules our apprehension and scoffs at the nervousness of a people protected by wide oceans. That does sound reassuring, but it doesn't explain away the probabilities of the future beyond a European war, nor is there comfort in the teacher's well-earned reputation for revising his plans and revoking his promises. He seems to have a mission to hurt, defeat and humiliate the nations that humiliated Germany 20 years ago for the joy of revenge and a plan to take them one by one, if possible.

Something Mysterious About Soviet Position
There is something very mysterious about the Russian phase of this for always, up to a year or less ago, it was Russia and the Bolsheviks whom Hitler hated, but lately there have been queer signs. Russia under Stalin has imitated Hitlerism, and Hitler himself, step by step, has been forced to adopt for the German people the very form of government which he promised to save them from. Private property enjoys only a nominal existence in Germany, and the capitalist who thinks he owns his plant is merely managing it for the state. Let him try to exercise some of the rights of ownership and he soon learns. They now have little to compromise, and there have been hints in the news that a compromise is being considered, but, regardless of that possibility, France, Britain and, in a deferred position on the list, this country, the contemptible democracies are the subjects of his hatred.

There are many in this country who minimize the danger and prefer to suspect that President Roosevelt has created a war scare to blur embarrassments on the home political and economic front. That is a painful accusation and one which gives aid and comfort to Hitler, but it deserves a hearing and cannot be dismissed as un-American or unpatriotic. If persons of that mind have information or arguments to dissolve the threats which others think they see in the state of things and the portents, they may save the country from a terrible folly, and one man's reputation or place in history is not worth a war.

President's Making Decisions for Country
Meanwhile, be it observed, the president is making the decisions which commit the country to the job of bottle-holder in the democratic corner, should war come, and almost certainly to active help should things go badly in that corner. The people of the country read and hear about armaments and see the leaders choosing up sides and have not been consulted and have no way of expressing themselves. War they certainly do not want, but nobody has been able to get the floor for them. Perhaps the American people, if consulted, would say that if Britain and France must fight such a war that is just their hard luck, and, after all, only another war in the long series of wars between

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

York—to forget. Places don't make much difference when you've been hurt so bitterly.

"I'm sorry," Noel felt her words so inadequate.

"I'd never trust any man again," Elsie spoke cynically.

"That's not fair to yourself," Noel suggested. "I hope you'll be married happily some day."

"I do it will be for companionship—and security," Elsie retorted. Security, Noel was thinking—how women cling to the word. She didn't tell Elsie that's why she had first promised David—out of fear of the future and what it might hold for her.

But she thought about it continuously while she went to the theater. Love only brings misery—there was her own experience, and Elsie's.

It was out of this retrospection that she talked with David after the performance that night. He brought up the subject of the marriage ceremony—where would they have it? Who would be there? Noel had a sense of closing every door behind her as she passively agreed with all his plans. David had a friend, a clergyman up in Westchester. They'd drive there in time to come back and board the Elana for its North Cape Cruise.

"If we waited awhile..."

"Aren't you afraid to marry me, David, knowing how I feel, knowing so much about me?" She interrupted his eagerly reported arrangements.

"If you mean..." Whatever he was going to say he didn't utter.

Instead he looked at her steadily. "I know you think you don't love me now, dear. But I know, too, that you'll keep your promises. I'll teach you to love me," he said as though making a solemn pledge.

"Perhaps if we waited a while..." There she was again, asking for more time. Why? What would it bring her? She couldn't change anything!

David seemed frightened. He protested ardently. "No postponement, not that Noel!" Then, sympathetically, "You're tired, upset. The play's been a strain on you—and I can understand your reluctance in leaving the stage—that's been so important to you."

David was generous in strange ways, Noel thought as he promised her, "If some time in the future, you want to go back to your work, if you feel you can't do without it, I'll consent to that, too. And help if I can."

"That's good of you, David." The conversation settled something in Noel's mind, in her heart, also. She was reconciled now—instantly to herself she'd conquered her feeling for Allan. It was past, something beautiful she wouldn't want to forget, ever. But it was already in the past!

Noel told herself she was sure of her own emotions when she went back to the hospital to see Allan.

"At last!" he exclaimed not too exuberantly when he saw her. "I thought you were never coming." He was cheerful, cordial and friendly. He didn't hold her hand this time nor ask her to draw her chair close to him.

"You'll soon be back at your desk," Noel suggested.

A dark frown crossed his face. "It won't be that quickly," he replied seriously, then smiled at her. "That hat's very becoming." He was changing the subject. "It does things to your eyes."

And you're doing things to my heart, Noel thought. For all her determination she couldn't help it—she reached over and touched his hand.

"I've been thinking about you so much, Allan." She meant about their last meeting, the way he had called her darling, the way he had looked at her ardently.

"I'm glad you haven't forgotten

our friendship, Noel." He said it slowly, keeping his voice even—and pleasant.

Noel drew back as though he had struck her. There was no mistaking the meaning of his remark. He was putting her in her place. He was trying to make her understand the last meeting had been nothing important—she was to forget it! Well, she would!

She'd show him! Pain of the first shock was submerged in her rising anger. "I'll be going away soon, you know."

Kind About It

He turned his face away from her. "When?" he asked finally.

"In a few weeks," was all she could manage. She didn't tell him this would be the last time she'd see him before that. She couldn't stand it again. She didn't want his calm, placid friendship. What then, did she want? Her emotions and reason were all entangled in inconsistencies not even she could understand.

The room was so still she could hear the small clock ticking on his table. "I'll miss you." Her voice was low, unsteady. He couldn't see that her lips were trembling.

He didn't answer. She couldn't bear the silence. "I'd better be going," she suggested.

"Not yet," as he turned. It was a plea, so insistent! "You've only just come," he protested. "Can't you stay a while longer?"

But when she sat there he was quiet. She wanted to ask, "Am I boring you, Allan?" She couldn't understand his mood—it was so strange, for him. "How long will you be here?" She had to say something!

"They'll let me home soon. I'll go up to Claborn, with mother," he replied. "There's not much more they can do for me here."

"Then back to your office?"

"I don't know when I'll go back." His tone closed the subject. Noel understood him to mean that when he'd recovered he would be marrying Elaine.

She stood by the bed, she had to get out, away from him. "I must be going!"

But she stood there as though she couldn't leave him—this last time.

Noel leaned down, brushed her lips against his. "Be a good patient and remember me, Allan," she said, struggling to keep the quaver out of her voice. His hand clutched her shoulder, holding her face close to his.

"I can't bear it!"

The choking words came out before she could stop them. Allan's arms tightened round her, pressed her face against his. "You mustn't

Stuhldreher to Speak At University Alumni Banquet Here Tonight

Coch Harry Stuhldreher of the University of Wisconsin will address about 150 persons at a banquet at Castle hall this evening sponsored by the Appleton chapter of the university alumni association.

Stuhldreher is expected to devote most of his talk to football. Election of officers will be held at the banquet, open to those who have attended the university and friends or relatives accompanying them.

Present officers are Mrs. R. J. White, president; Glenn Arthur, vice president; and Arthur H. Benson, secretary-treasurer.

cover the marks of her crying. Why had she made such a fool of herself? He'd been kind about it.

"I'm sorry I was so silly!" She couldn't see her face in the tiny mirror, there was only a blur. By the time she turned from the window she could smile, a little shakily, and say with what passed for a laugh:

"I'm an awful idiot, Allan—about people I like."

"You're the loveliest person I've ever known," Allan's reply came slowly. His face was ghostly white, his lips were a straight, thin line across his face. I've hurt him, she thought frantically.

"Are you in pain?" She was thinking of his poor injured back.

"A little. I'll be all right when I rest." He spoke as though with effort. He was telling her to go, she believed.
